EMINENT ENGLISHMAN ASSASSINATED

STEAMER, STRIKING PIER OF BRIDGE,
KNOCKS BRIDGE IN RIVER IN JERSEY;
MILLION DOLLARS LOSS; NO LIVES LOST

Jersey City, N. J. June 22.—A steamer striking the pier of the Hackensack River bridge and sending the bridge into the river was the cause for the summoning of ambulances today from all directions as it was at first supposed that many persons had been killed or injured.

The bridge is of steel, five hundred feet long, carrying the Lincoln Highway across the Hackensack River between Newark and Jersey City. Police reported that no one was injured and the ambulances were sent back. Five men who were standing on the draw when the steamer struck were thrown into the river but were rescued by passing boats. The steamer which struck the bridge is the Glenardel. Damage to the bridge is estimated at over a million dollars.

WEALTHY UNIONTOWN VIOLATOR OF DRY LAW BEGINS SERVING HIS YEAR

Frank C. Monogan, One Of The City's Most Wealthy Men, Loses His Appeal And Enters Cell.

FOUGHT IT TWO YEARS

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 22.—Frank C. Monogan, one of the wealthiest residents of Uniontown, today started a one year's sentence in the Allegheny County jail for violation of the Prohibition laws. Monogan was convicted two years ago under State laws and took the case before the United States Supreme Court where his conviction was upheld.

KEPHART HITS REPORT WITH
PLAIN DENIAL

Harrisburg, June 21.—Former State Treasurer Harmon M. Kephart tonight issued a statement in which he declared there were no irregularities in the use of contingent and deficiency funds appropriated to his department by the Legislature of 1917 and 1919. He says that the alleged irregularities shown in the reports of auditors to Auditor General Lewis will be fully explained when the Treasury investigation hearings are resumed.

Kephart calls particular attention to the fact that at the end of his term he turned back to the State Treasury $3,600, an unexpended balance which remained in the hands under question. He says that he did not pay personal bills or notes with money except what was legally his. The former state treasurer in his statement said:

"The use of the contingent and deficiency funds of the State Treasury during my term as State Treasurer, which are dwelt upon and questioned in the report of the auditors to Attorney General Lewis today, were regular in every way and will be explained when the hearings are resumed."

"I handled the contingent funds in the same manner that they are handled by other State departments. When it was necessary to advance funds for business trips or other purposes, as was occasionally the case, a check was drawn and an accounting made later. This accounts for the use of some of the checks for small amounts of which I am charged with making payments in private matters. This I never did unless it was with money legally due me. And I used the checks in the same manner that I or any other State Employee would have used their semi monthly pay check to pay bills.

"I did reimburse myself for traveling expenses, but under the impression that this was the practice of the state officials. I never knew until today of former Attorney General Brown's opinion that such expenses could not be paid, and am ready to refund these amounts if I was wrong in the use of that money. On these trips I transacted business for the State in Pittsburgh, Washington, Philadelphia and other cities.

Efforts For A Truce
In The Central District
Have Been Abandoned

Cleveland, Ohio, June 22.—The proposed truce of coal operators and miners union officials in the central district, comprising Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Western Pennsylvania, in an effort to end the coal strike, has been abandoned, coal operators announced here today. Insurgent coal operators, or those who favor dealing with the strikers of individual mines, have finally aligned the majority of the operators of the district in their ranks.

HARDING REFUSES TO APPROVE FREEDOM
FOR PHILIPPINES

Washington, D. C. June 22.—President Harding today refused to approve absolute, immediate and complete independence of the Philippines as recently requested by a delegation from the islands. The President's refusal to approve the bill for independence of the islands was made known to the delegates at a conference at the White House today.

Miss Genevieve McCloskey, who is in training at the Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia, will arrive in town this evening and will be the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Lola Merry while on her way to Potterdale to spend her vacation with her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCloskey.

What Is the "Lakes-To-The-Sea" Highway?

What is the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway? Where does it start? Where does it end? How much of it is now paved? How much of it is unpaved but under contract to be paved?

There is much misunderstanding in regard to it. There is a lack of appreciation of its future importance through lack of correct maps and information. To the majority it is a name and nothing more. The writer has driven over every mile of the trail and the article below is intended to make clear to the public the exact present condition of the road.

The Name
The term, Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway was originally applied to a plan for a road connecting the Great Lakes at Erie with the tide water at Philadelphia or Baltimore. Lee B. Humphrey, a brick and tile manufacturer of Brookville, was the first man to advocate it, and spent much of his own money and time to arouse the interest of the officials of the State Highway Department and of the commissioners of the counties affected. In its conception it seemed a scheme not likely to be realized for a score of years to come, and because at that time it was assumed that each county

PORT MATILDA HAD
VERY COSTLY BLAZE
TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Overtaken Blow Torch
In Garage Starts Fire
Which Quickly Spreads
To Other Buildings.

OSSMAN IS BURNED

A fire at Port Matilda Tuesday afternoon was the most disastrous in the history of that thriving and enterprising village in the Bald Eagle Valley, entailing an exceedingly heavy property loss.

Starting shortly before 3 o'clock, when a gasoline blow torch in the public garage of Samuel S. Ossman was overturned, setting fire to the interior, it seemed only a few minutes until the flames were beyond control and menacing the entire town.

There is a water system in Port Matilda, and the residents did what they could to stay the flames, but the effort was of little avail. A telephone call was sent to the fire departments of Tyrone and Philipsburg, and firemen from both towns responded. The Tyrone crowd, with a motor pumper, reached the scene first, Philipsburg firemen with the Reliance pumper arriving a few minutes later. But there was little for the firemen to do, as the flames had already gotten in their work of destruction, consuming everything within reach. Fortunately there was little or no wind, or there might have been a different story to tell.

Samuel J. Ossman, one of the wealthiest of the fire losers, and in whose garage the fire started, was painfully burned when the gasoline in the garage caught. He was brought to the Cottage State Hospital here where his injuries, consisting of a burn on the neck and arm, were attended to. He was enabled to leave the hospital last evening and returned to Port Matilda. Fred Woodring was also burned on the right arm.

The buildings destroyed were the public garage and undertaking establishment owned by Mr. Ossman; house, owned and occupied by Mr. Ossman and family; cement house, barn and private garage, owned by W. T. Hoover, hardware merchant, and William Bros. grist mill, barn and garage.

The Ossman residence also built upon establishment was a frame building 30 by 60 feet, one story. The garage was in the front, the under-

FIELD MARSHAL SIR HENRY WILSON
SHOT DEAD JUST OUTSIDE HIS HOME
—MURDERERS ARE CAUGHT—

London, England, June 22.—Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson was shot dead this morning outside of Eaton Square by two assassins. The men were captured.

Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson was Great Britain's representative on the Allied Supreme Council which dictated the Allies policy during the war. He was also chief of staff of the British army and was responsible for sending troops to Ireland during the recent trouble. The War Office believes that Irish extremists were responsible for the assassination.

London, England, June 22.—Two soldiers of the Irish Republican Army today shot to death Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson in front of his residence at Eaton Square here today. The assassins were captured after they had put up a running fight and shot three policemen and one citizen. One attempted suicide. The murder of Wilson is believed to be part of a wide spread plot to assassinate opponents of the Irish Republican cause and guards were redoubled in Whitehall and about Lloyd George's residence in Downing Street.

REEDSVILLE HOSE
COMPANY RIGHT UP
FRONT IN SERVICE

The activities of the Reedsville Hose Co., in promoting the neighborhood movement and in co-operating with the recreation program of Clearfield Community Service have been serving much credit. In addition to operating their social rooms for neighborhood events, the Hose Co., are backing the base ball team, the Reedsville Indians, have a large number of men playing volleyball each evening, and expect soon to develop some horse shoe pitchers that will make the West Side look to their laurels. The latest action along this line was taken at the meeting of the company early this week, when they unanimously voted to give an evening's work to making and installing sand boxes, swings and see saws on the children's playground, and to have a festival in the near future for the benefit of the playground.

FIND GAS POCKET
NEAR MEADVILLE

Meadville, Pa., June 22.—A large pocket of gas was struck at a depth of 220 feet today on the E. A. De Vore farm, in West Mead Township, Crawford County, by the Neeson Oil Company. Officials of the company declared the pocket is a large one and that it has enough pressure to insure a large output.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Harris, of Ogden Avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ida, to Morris Isenberg, of Houtzdale, Pa. No date has been set for the wedding.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Alden Burfield at their home at Fairlee, Monday morning, a fifteen pound boy.

LIVE WIRE TOUCHED
FUSE ON FIREWORKS
AND MOOLEY BAWLS

A lot of the youngsters of the city who expected to go out of town to the store of Frank Spingola to buy their supply of fireworks are doomed to disappointment. This morning while the fire crackers, roman candles etc., were on display in this store which is just across the borough line somebody allowed fire or a spark to come too close to them and immediately there was a display of pyrotechnics which any youngster would have travelled miles to see. The firemen were quickly on hand but before their arrival the use of a garden hose had brought the fire under control and the building was rescued from it. One version of the origin of the fire is that a young man touched one of the fuses with the end of a live wire.

AUTOIST SPEEDS
PAST GIRL WHO
TRIED HOLD-UP

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 22.—A girl bandit and two male accomplices, who at the point of revolvers held up John Murray as he was driving his automobile along the Saltzberg road near Sandy Creek, were being sought by police today. The girl described as short and pretty stood in the middle of the road and with drawn weapon ordered Murray to halt. Instead of doing so, however, Murray stepped on the gas and fled from the scene with out having to turn over any valuables.

Daughter and Mother on Same Jury

Because a mother and daughter agreed, a Cincinnati slayer must die. The mother and daughter both were members of the jury that tried him. They're Miss Jesse Imogene Wright and Mrs. Fannie Bell Wright.

MAINE ELECTION IS VERY ENCOURAGING
TO THE PRESIDENT

Washington, June 20.—President Harding feels very good over the Maine and Minnesota primary results bringing victory to his two intimate associates Senators Hale and Kelllogg. While not desiring to make any comment on the outcome of primaries, either those just held or those preceding them, it is human nature as the President says, to have personal feelings in such matters.

As a matter of fact, the whole administration leadership is feeling much better, breathing more easily and in every way inclined to be more cheerful as a result of Monday's political results. It is the first real ray of sunshine that has come to the organization directors since the primaries began. Senator McCormick, chairman of the Republican Senatorial campaign, issued a statement declaring the nomination of both his conferees meant their re-election, and that whatever differences of opinion there may exist among Republicans, there is none of the conviction that Democrats will control either branch of Congress after the fall elections.

Neither the Maine nor Minnesota primaries developed the intense interest that the Indians, Pennsylvania and Iowa primaries produced. The vote was light and there were no outstanding issues of national significance. The next contest of real importance is that in North Dakota, June 28, where Senator McCumber, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, has a bitter contest on his hands. Recent reports from the state indicate that McCumber's chances are improving somewhat over the low ebb reached a few weeks ago.

CHILD DROWNS IN TUB

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 22.—The body of eighteen month's old Mary Jane Costella was found today by her mother in a tub of water in the rear of her home. It is supposed the child fell into the tub while playing.

See "Springtime"
A Worth While Show
Here This Evening

A show of unusual merit is to be given at The Driggs this evening and tomorrow evening by home talent of the very best that Clearfield affords. The title of the play to be given is "Springtime" and the title aptly describes the play. It is the kind of a play that will linger long in your memory. Pretty costumes, youth and vivacity predominates. See it tonight. Not only will there be soloists and specialists but in the choruses there will appear a great number of the young element who have never before been given an opportunity to display their talents.

Bad Situation Has Developed In One
Illinois Coal Town

Marion, Ill., June 22.—Fifty strike breaking miners being conducted from the mine of the Southern Illinois Coal Company near Herren were taken into custody by a mob of 1000 strike sympathizers today. The mob surrounded the strike breakers who were being marched from the mine after the operators had announced that no further attempts would be made to operate the mine with strike breakers. On taking the strike breakers into custody the mob began to march toward Herren where they planned to put the men aboard a train.

Marion, Ill., June 22.—After having been stormed by strikers the Southern Illinois Coal Company's mine was shut down here today. The one hundred strike breakers who have been operating it were conducted beyond the strike zone. Two persons were killed in the fighting yesterday. W. J. Lester, president of the miners announced he would make no further attempt to operate with strike breakers.

The pit was stormed by a crowd of 2,500 strikers and strike sympathizers on Wednesday when word was received from United Mine Workers headquarters in Indianapolis that the shovel men's union, to which the strike breakers claimed to belong was authorized and outlawed by the American Federation of Labor.

Herrin, Ill., June 21.—Several persons were reported killed and a number of injuries this afternoon when shooting occurred six miles east of here between striking miners and men employed at the strip mine of the Southern Illinois Coal Company, which began operations last week.

Among those reported killed were three union striking miners. About 100 men are employed at the strip mine and a crowd of more than 500 is reported to have marched on the camp late this afternoon.

How to Make and Use It By A. HYATT VERRILL

XI. CONDENSERS

These appliances are a most important part of a wireless set, as without them the oscillations, even if detected by the instruments, would be very weak and faint. They are divided broadly into two classes known as Fixed Condensers and Variable Condensers, the former being the simplest, and the latter the most efficient, for while a fixed condenser is always of one capacity and can only be increased or decreased by adding to or subtracting from the number of sheets, the variable type may be altered or adjusted at will by a knob or handle, thus tuning or adjusting the receiving circuit exactly as a tuning coil is adjusted, but much more delicately, as the adjustment of a tuning coil consists in shortening the length of coil by jumping connections from one turn of wire to another to alter wave lengths, whereas, the condenser adjustment is slow, even and gradual and alters capacity, but it must not be forgotten that a condenser and some sort of coil or similar device must be employed to get satisfactory results. The simplest form of fixed condenser consists of a number of alternating sheets of tin-foil and waxed paper or mica, the alternate sheets of foil being connected by wires which are in turn connected with the terminals where required.

To make a fixed condenser it is only necessary to lay sheets of tin-foil between sheets of waxed paper and connect them. A very efficient little fixed condenser, to be used by shunting across the receivers of a small set, or as a grid-condenser with a vacuum tube set, can be made, as shown in Fig. 23. Have some smooth tin-foil, free from holes or tears, and cut two pieces about one inch in length and one-half an inch wide. Then, from thoroughly waxed paper—which can be purchased or can be made by soaking good quality writing paper in paraffine wax—cut three pieces 2 1/2 inches in length and 3 inches wide. On one of these pieces place a piece of the foil; then cover this with a second strip of paper, place the other strip of foil over this and cover with the last strip of paper. Be very sure that the edges of the tin-foil are well within the margins of paper and are accurately in line or centered. In fact, before placing them, it is wise to draw a square the size of the foil on each piece of paper, spacing it equidistant from edges, and arrange the foil to fit this. Fig. 24. Next cut two pieces of light wire five or six inches long (flexible stranded wire is best), spread the strands at one end of each piece apart and place one of these frayed and spread ends on the lowest piece of foil between it and the bottom paper. Next, place the other, frayed and spread the same way, on the upper piece of foil at the opposite end and with a few drops of hot paraffine fix them in place on the edges of the paper. Then, roll the whole, being careful not to displace the foil (this may be secured to each piece of paper with a few drops of paraffine at the edges) and form a small cylinder Fig. 25. Wind the cylinder tightly with fine thread at each end, as shown, or wrap with adhesive tape and dip the whole into hot paraffine. In using this condenser with a crystal set it is only necessary to shunt, or connect it, across your phone receiver wires, but if using it in a vacuum tube set you must use a grid-leak shunted across it. This is merely a piece of cardboard placed between two blinding-posts or terminals and with several soft lead-pencil lines drawn across it from post to post. In order to be sure that a good connection is made, draw pencil marks about the holes where posts are to be inserted. The distance between posts should be not over five-eighths of an inch. Sometimes drawing ink (made of carbon, for writing ink will not serve) is used in place of lead pencil, but the latter has the advantage that the lines can be varied or adjusted to give best results by means of an eraser.

Variable condensers are much more difficult to make and while any ingenious boy can make them, it is usually cheaper to purchase them ready made. There are two common forms, one known as the sliding plate, Fig. 26, the other as the rotary, Fig. 27. The former consists of a number of metal plates, which slide back and forth in a frame, case or box provided with grooves and fixed plates. The rotary type consists of a number of semicircular plates of metal so arranged as to rotate or swing past a series of fixed discs. In each form, the air spaces between the plates correspond to the waxed paper between the strips of foil on the fixed condensers. By means of either of these two variable forms, fine adjustment of capacity may be obtained. Many people cannot understand the function of a condenser, but, broadly speaking, it is to store up electrical energy and then suddenly release it, as the current passing through is interrupted, varied or broken. In other words, to increase the oscillations.

Although most small sets will operate with a fixed condenser and a variable one is not necessary, yet the variable type will always improve the receiver and will permit much finer tuning than a tuning coil of any type by itself.

Reedsville Pale Faces Scaled By Red Men In First Game Of League

The first baseball game in the newly organized Community League, which was played at Reedsville last evening between the Red Men and the Reedsville team, before a large crowd of interested fans. In the first inning the Red Men outplayed the Reedsville team and evened the score at the end of the first two innings. It is planned to hold one of these league games on these grounds at six o'clock every Wednesday evening.

The next game in this Twilight League will be tomorrow evening at the Driving Park when the I. O. O. F. team will meet the American Legion. The game scheduled for Saturday between the Knights of Columbus and the Gearhart's Knitting Machine Co., has been postponed owing to the inability of the K of C. team to play on Saturdays.

SWIMMING IS GOOD EXERCISE FOR ALL MEMBERS OF FAMILY

Corsan tells how sport benefits everyone. Many muscles are used.

Swimming can easily be classed among the most wholesome forms of recreation. Old and young, men and women, boys and girls, are found wherever suitable conditions warrant their entering the water. The exhilaration experienced in the water soon brushes aside all instinct of fear and nothing but real wholesome recreation which increases with leaps and bounds in direct proportion to the improved proficiency of the swimmer. Results soon become manifest and once puny and weakly children develop into the ideal athlete with long and slender muscles, properly proportioned and symmetrically developed.

The swimmer as a type is almost in a class by himself owing to the all around nature of the sport. Arms, body and legs get their proportionate amount of exercise and relaxation. A great deal of swimming is relaxation and therefore suitable for anyone.

Swimming offers sport to the most strenuous and to the weak. Cases of crippled children and victims of infantile paralysis who can swim, and swim well are not uncommon. The aged find relief and sport and the young find their married life athletic the keenest competition. The internal organs are strengthened, making the swimmer organically efficient, strengthening the heart lungs and visceral organs, improving circulation and respiration and producing a condition of health and well being, experienced only by a few mortals. The nervous system is soothed and quieted by the tonic effect of the water, air and sunshine; in short the entire body receives its full share of stimulation, exercise and recreation

MARRIAGES

CONDON—BROWN

George W. Condon, son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Condon of Clearfield and Miss Edna E. Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Brown of Woodland were united in marriage at the Lutheran Parsonage last evening at 8:45. The beautiful ring ceremony was used. The happy couple will reside for the present at the home of the bridegroom.

On Wednesday, June 21st, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Lambert, on Daisy Street, Harry A. Broadbeck and Vinetta Lambert were united in marriage by Rev. B. J. Hummel, the ring ceremony being used. After a wedding four in the east they will make their home in Clearfield. Best wishes of their many friends accompany them in their married life.

To Last 20,000 Years. The builders of a stadium for a California university must have had possible visitors in mind as they worked, for they have built it to last twenty thousand years. Built of gravel, sand and water-worn stones—materials such as a glacier carries and deposits—the stadium will outlive the world's greatest amphitheatres, according to the estimates of engineers in charge. Terminal moraines, or glacial deposits, they point out, have resisted the action of the elements for many thousand years without materially altering their shape.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

Clearfield County sportsmen will do well to keep posted regarding the recommendations to be made to the coming Legislature by Governor Sprout's Reorganization Commission, which has been devoting some time to the proposition of reorganizing the different governmental departments at Harrisburg. The following from Seth E. Gordon, Secretary of the State Game Commission, is timely and should be read by all interested in hunting and fishing.

If this subject is to be considered, the bulk of our present law pamphlet can be reduced from 35 to 40 pages, while this is being done, it has been suggested that the following slight changes be made.

1—Change the hunters' license year so that it will expire April 30th instead of December 31st, and then require the wearing of the tag when hunting for birds and animals, game or otherwise, by any method. This will take away the present inducement for men to try and evade the law, claiming they are hunting for animals not classed as game.

2—Prohibit boys under the age of 17 years to hunt, except when accompanied by a responsible adult, unless on lands upon which they reside.

3—Increase the non-resident license fee to $15 instead of $10 as now.

4—Provide for uniform season for all small game for November only.

5—Prohibit the killing of deer except bucks with two or more points to one antler, regardless whether such animals has an antler on the other side or not.

6—Prohibit the sale of game of any kind except rabbits killed in another state and shipped into this state, and racoons.

7—License fur buyers so as to protect our rural people against unscrupulous fur buyers, also require sworn report of skins purchased before renewal.

8—Many sportsmen suggest that the woodchuck be given the same protection now accorded the skunk and muskrats with a slight different season largely because the woodchuck is the home builder for rabbits. After consulting with many sportsmen, I believe it would be advisable to give this matter serious consideration.

Legislation to Which Sportsmen May Object

The Re-organization Commission has been carefully studying the operation of the various departments of the state government and will undoubtedly bring about desirable improvements in the various activities if their recommendations are adopted in the next Legislature, through the public press sportsmen have been informed. Although I have nothing officially on the subject that said commission will probably recommend two changes in which the sportsmen of the state are vitally interested. The first is the possibility of having the hunters license funds and all other special or "ear-marked" funds, deposited in the general fund of the Commonwealth, requiring the sportsmen to go before the Legislature at each session and ask that body to appropriate to the same commission the funds deposited by the sportsmen. It is claimed I believe that pooling all "special funds" in the treasury is necessary in order to establish a workable budget system for the Commonwealth. The Reorganization has already been informed that the conditions under which the resident hunters' license act was passed, namely, that the sportsmen of the state were solemnly promised that their funds would always be kept in a special fund separate and apart solely for their work so that not a single cent could not be used for any other purpose. Hundreds of sportsmen take the position that this should be continued and that they should not take a chance on having their work hampered in any way.

The second is, I am also informed through the public press, that the Re-organization Commission may recommend the increase of State Police force and disperse with the services of a large part of our field organization of the Game Commission the Department of Fisheries and the Department of Forestry. The Commission has been advised that while the State Police is a splendid organization and deserve the support of our good citizens everywhere, the work of protecting and enforcing the laws concerning game and wild birds means not only an exercise of police powers, but that our field organization devote 75 per cent of their time and effort along educational lines. If such changes were made, a goodly number of our officers would be necessary to look after the stocking and feeding of game in the wintertime, and many other activities of the Department that the State Policemen could not undertake.

W. C. T. U. HOLDS DUE SOCIAL

Yesterday evening a Due Social was held at the home of Mrs. Channing Howard, by the W. C. T. U. The large number present made it a splendid success and also made a glad treasurer. A number signified their intention of getting two new memberships apiece, to make the required gain of 88,000 in Pennsylvania, in the year.

Miss LaRue Chorpennig spoke of the Y. P. B. convention to meet in DuBois the coming Monday, the 26th. A memorable occasion in the history of the Pennsylvania Y. P. B. not only because all the central officers of the State W. C. T. U. and the National Secretary of the Y. P. B. but also the highest official in the body, Miss Anna A. Gordon, National President and Acting World's President will be there.

The members were delightfully entertained during the serving of refreshments by Mrs. Clara Howard Brown and brother, with numbers on the piano and flute and also by the Misses Jean and Zula Mapes of Jersey Shore with enjoyable selection on the piano and amusing recitations by the latter.

The Dog and the Cat

Dogs, like horses, remember the sound of the language of their masters, and even after many years in a foreign land can remember the meaning of sentences. Cats seem incapable of comprehending the human tongue.

THOSE WILSON "IDEALS"

While it is reported that Woodrow Wilson is in better health than he was a year ago, his recent letter-writing proclivities do not indicate that he has learned the lesson of events. The number of letters he has written, however, corroborate the report of the improved state of his health.

From the expressions which have found their way to the public there is no evidence that Mr. Wilson is in any closer touch with public sentiment than when he was a recluse in the white house. Then he took counsel with none and even listened to few. Since his retirement from the presidency he has been isolated still more. Thus the views he expresses are those he arrives at in the seclusion of his library any may have no relation to the thoughts of men in the active world. So far as he has made concrete statement, "idealism" embodies defeat of men who thwarted his ambitions.

It may be assumed also that the "idealism" to which he refers has connection with the League of Nations, though there is not the slightest proof that the attitude of Americans toward that organization as it now exists has changed a particle since the middle of 1920. Thus he voices a wish rather than a conviction when he affects to discern signs of an increased adherence to his peculiar views. Having set his hopes on forcing the United States into a league which, as developed, was anything but what had been expected, he still clings to the idea that it will prevail. As president he took little note of public sentiment through ascertainment of it and now, naturally, he knows less about it.

Thus his views as to conditions are of no greater value than those of any other man in effect secluded from the world.

NAVY SNOBS GET A T. R. REBUKE

The official rebuke administered by the acting Secretary of the Navy, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, to the editors of the "Lucky Bag," the year book of the 1922 graduating class at Annapolis, would have done credit to his father.

The insults publicly offered one of the members of the class, Leonard Kaplan, were at first supposed to be directed against his race. The victim and his friends apparently incline now to a different belief, which they adopt all the more easily because it transpires that on a number of previous occasions the cadet year book has singled out this or that fellow cadet to be abused in malicious lampoons. On these previous occasions the victims were Gentiles; the attacks are therefore apparently not due to racial malice.

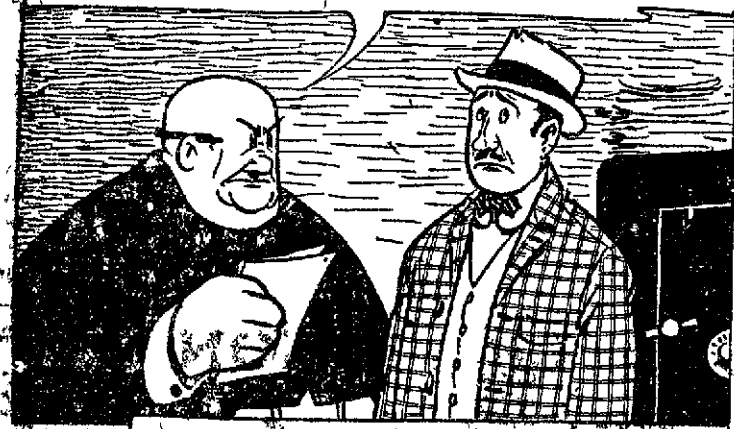

Whatever the motive, the practice calls for the indignant contempt of all decent people. Secretary Roosevelt told the responsible editor on the present occasion, "Your action casts a grave doubt as to your possession of those qualifications essential to any officer in the United States Navy." The rebuke added that "the department will require from you in the future evidence of a fundamental change in your attitude toward your companions in the service."

This was the right way in which to apprise the offenders of the seriousness of their misconduct. If they are so lacking in high principle as not to be aware intuitively that the command of ships is no post for blackguards they need to be told in that illuminating style of speech which is rightly called Rooseveltian.

What member of the army, navy or the dusty engineers, or the quarter-master corps, tank corps, medics or balloon corps, etc., etc., who served overseas during the World War ever found a photograph similar to the one reproduced here? If that member of the etc., etc., will surrender it to its owner, who prizes it most highly for sentimental reasons, naturally, two hearts will beat violently as one.

The photograph is that of Mrs. Harriet Finn of Indiana. It was carried next his heart by her soldier sweet heart, and in the well-known tumult and confusion of a battle around Chateau Thierry, or at St. Mihiel, or in the Argonne or while his baggage was being very considerably cared for some place far back of the lines the photograph was lost. Men who went through the same mill will know that neglect didn't lose the photo, but as some one has so well said, but few girls got into those battles.

The photograph shown here was made from the same plate as the battle-scarred one that is being sought. The gentleman who found it, if any, may communicate with the Legion's headquarters at Indianapolis, Ind.

EIGHTEEN HOURS IN WATER

Philip Burger, Legion Man of Troy, Wears Decoration From Portuguese Government.

Spending eighteen hours holding to the edge of a life raft in icy water after saving a shipmate's life, made Philip J. Burger eligible for the unusual honor of a decoration from the Portuguese government and the American Distinguished Service Medal.

Burger was a second class gunner's mate on the American destroyer Jacob Jones, when she was torpedoed by a German submarine off Lands End England in December 1917. Burger and the shipmate whose life he saved were among the few survivors picked up by a British warship after eighteen hours in the water.

He is now receiving vocational training in his home city, Troy, N. Y. and is a midshipman in the Noble Callahan post of the American Legion at Troy.

NO JOB, GIVES HIS BLOOD

Former Service Man of Omaha Aid Sufferer and His Own Family at Same Time.

The heroic spirit of man has not always been born under the shadow of awe-inspiring mountains, on the rock-bound coast of the sea, or in the busy crowded ways of a great city. Fred W. Smith of Omaha has never lived in the presence of those magnificent and noble works of God or man. In fact his days have been spent on an unromantic Nebraska farm, in an Omaha packing plant and in the kitchen of a base hospital in France.

But these things have not kept him from being the true hero. Not long ago, when a man was dying in an Omaha hospital and the doctors believed that a pint of human blood might save his life, Fred Smith went immediately to the hospital and offered to let as much blood as was needed be taken from his body. "I was strong and a little blood didn't mean much to me if it would save the other fellow's life," he said.

His act gained all the more commendation because he had a wife and two small children to support and was out of a job.

Carrying On With the American Legion

A tourist park for Fred Fordsters is projected by the American Legion post of Tracy, Minn.

To give the town a thorough cleaning and brightening up for the summer, each member of the Legion post of Villard, Minn., donated a day's work.

A new definition of the well-known army phrase "S. O. L." has been evolved by the Douglas county Legionnaires of Omaha, Neb. It is "Staying Outta Legion."

At Grant's Tomb in New York a tree has been transplanted from the dooryard of the General's old home in Missouri by the Legion and the American Forestry association.

TO ENGLAND AGAIN WITH BRAVE HEART

New York, N. Y., June 22.—"I'd give my other eye to make England dry, it would be well worth it." "Pussfoot" Johnson, rum's arch enemy, made this assertion to day in an interview with a representative of the United Press just before sailing for England. When informed that London was planning to greet him with stones over pipe eggs and tomatoes the Pussfoot Agent chorled "Say, that's great. Let 'em come. I can fight and tell them England will be dry in 1935 if not sooner. She is bound to go dry. She can't help it. Economic pressure will be brought to bear. It will be necessary for England to go dry in order to continue in world trade. Since this country went dry foreign business has increased three fold while England's has slumped. That proves that England will be unable to compete with dry America. She will have to follow suit or disappear from the foreign trade horizon."

WARD IN ABOUT SAME CLASS AS JAMES STILLMAN

New York, N. Y., June 22.—Search for two additional "love nests" where Walter S. Ward is suspected of having entertained a constant stream of women visitors during the absence of his wife and children at Palm Beach was today the feature in the Ward-Peters murder mystery. A certain kmons which hung behind the bath room door of Ward's main "love nest" and which was found crumpled on the floor after the visit of a mysterious woman forms another link in the chain. Bing & Bing, agents for the house in which the millionaire's son maintained his flat, finally objected to the stream of women visitors to this bachelor apartment and Ward was forced to find a new "love nest." When this is found new developments and revelations are expected.

We Found What We Believed Tires and Tubes Should Be

The open driving season has borne out our claims about the values we offer in Oldfield Tires. Customers who have put these tires on their cars are reporting the kind of service and mileage we promised.

When we chose to handle Oldfields, we found they lived up to our ideas of what tires should be. Barney Oldfield's lifetime of experience and study had not been wasted. Oldfield construction both cord and fabric has demonstrated unmistakable superiority.

Oldfield Tubes, likewise have shown their superiority in the severest of all tests—the big racing classic, where Oldfield equipped cars invariably win.

You'll appreciate why we are so enthusiastic when you test Oldfield mileage and realize how low is the cost.

buying more carefully than ever.

Studebaker increased its sales 29% in 1921, though the industry, as a whole, showed a falling off of nearly 45%. 1922, up to May 1st, shows a gain in Studebaker production of 143% over the same period of 1921.

Studebaker sales records tell their own story. The buying public has declared for Studebaker's superiority.

CURWENSVILLE

Yesterday was the longest day in year but we haven't heard any one
say they noticed any particular difference.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. R. D.
Swoope entertained twenty-five ladies
of the Susquehanna Chapter of the
D. A. R. at her home here. All had a pleasant time and voted Mrs.
Swoope a delightful hostess.

Mrs. W. A. Thompson entertained
three tables of cards this afternoon
in honor of Miss Alice Bilger.

Miss Margaret Hipps will arrive
this evening from Grove City to spend her vacation with her parents
Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Hipps.

Mrs. Carrie Boyer Rutter of Clearfield spent part of yesterday with friends in town.

There has been a change in the personnel of the American Legion. Clifford Murray, Post Finance officer and social chairman has resigned. He has filled the position most admirably
and the Legion, the Auxiliary and the Community at large regret his resignation. The social affair which he has sponsored have been wonderfully enjoyable affairs but he has accepted a lucrative position with the Mount Union Refractories Co. and will leave
very soon to assume his new duties.
His many friends here wish him eminent success in his new field.

In his stead, Mr. Jas. M. Thompson has been elected to fill the chair
of Post Finance Officer and the Legion should be commended on their choice, as he is a man of experience
along these lines and will be a complete success in this office. Jake Kan-tar, who has been back of so many social successes in our town becomes chairman of the entertainment committee and we can look for some good things under his management.
Just here let us say, the Legion

has inaugurated a National Campaign for membership. When we consider that the Legion is caring for
one million disabled and incapacitated
men, we can realize the huge task which they have undertaken. The Legion stands for all that is finest and best in American citizenship and every person who is eligible to membership in either the Legion or the Auxiliary should feel it not only an honor but a duty to accept that membership and assume the tasks which
it may entail.

Mr. Abe Robinson, of Clearfield,
was in town yesterday.

Did you know that our Boys' Marine Band, that aggregation of which we are so proud, will go to Clearfield
on Sunday and give a concert at the Court House? They are a success in large letters.

DEMOCRATIC STATE PLATFORM IS HARD ON REPUBLICANS

Harrisburg, Pa. June 20.—(United News)—The platform of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania drafted
by its platform committee here today
for the coming campaign, concentrated its emphasis on a blast of criticism of Republican rule both state and national. The platform charged that "the administration of the state has been inefficient and corrupt" and that the Republican administration
and Congress have wasted months in viable folly while commerce is paralyzed and civilization disintegrates.
After outlining the principal features of Republican rule as viewed through Democratic glasses, it stated
the Democratic party of Pennsylvania
furnishes the only practical instrument for the accomplishment of necessary reforms.

The following policies were promised in event of Democratic success
in November.

Investigation of administration affairs and punishment of corrupt officials, if found guilty. Greater local self government.

Tax revision: flinging more of burden to classes more able to pay, including constitutional amendment

permitting graduated inheritance
tax.

Budget system.
Appropriations to be kept within revenues. Complete and adequate enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment.

Colloidal Chemistry.

Colloidal chemistry is the chemistry
of systems consisting of extremely finely divided material, such as bubbles,
drops, grains, filaments and films in
a state of suspension in other material.
The chemist calls this system a "heterogeneous system consisting of a dispersed phase in a dispersion medium." Colloidal chemistry therefore is a study of extremely finely divided suspensions.

STOP ITCHING SKIN

Zemo the Clean, Antiseptic
Liquid, Gives Prompt Relief

There is one safe, dependable treatment that relieves itching torture and that cleanses and soothes the skin.
Ask any druggist for a 35c or $1 bottle
of Zemo and apply it as directed. Soon
you will find that irritations, Pimples,
Blackheads, Eczema, Blisters, Ringworm and similar skin troubles will disappear.

Zemo, the penetrating, satisfying
liquid, is all that is needed, for it banishes most skin eruptions, makes
the skin soft, smooth and healthy.

Removing Splinters.
Sometimes a splinter gets under the nail so solidly that it is difficult to draw out. If a cold-water bandage is put around the tip of the finger and kept wet and cold it will in time loosen the splinter and minimize the danger of festering.

Carelessness Costs Large Sum.
A lighting expert says that about $200,000,000 worth of light is wasted
every year through failure to keep globes, reflectors, lamps and other
light fixtures free from dust and dirt.
Frequent cleaning of this equipment
is a necessary measure of economy.

SURVEY SHOWS DIFFERENCE IN COST OF TRACTOR AND HORSES

Horses Being Used to Prepare Seed Bed.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
The cost of power on tractor farms in the winter wheat belt is somewhat greater than when horses are used for all the work, according to the results of a survey by the United States Department of Agriculture. A preliminary report just issued shows, however, that three-fourths of the tractor owners were of the opinion that their tractors were proving profitable.

This survey shows differences in the cost of power and labor due to the use of tractors, the work done with them, and the cost per acre for different operations both with horses and tractors. Some 354 tractor owners in northern Wisconsin, Minnesota and southern Nebraska were visited, and a complete record of all work done with tractors and horses during the year was obtained, together with statements concerning the farmers' opinions of the advantages and disadvantages of using tractors. The farms averaged about 500 acres in size, on which 352 acres of crops were grown in 1921, nearly three-fourths of the crop area being in wheat.

The cost of using tractors for drawbar work on these farms averaged $494 for the year, or $1.00 per hour. These farmers were keeping an average of 25 head of work stock in addition to their tractors and the cost per farm of keeping the work stock for the year was $541. Thus the total annual cost of power for drawbar work was $1,025. The tractors furnished the power for 40 per cent of the drawbar work.

Variations in Cost of Power.

There were great variations in the practices and costs on individual farms and the results indicate that often the cost of using the tractors and keeping the work stock was exceeded displaced and the value of the family and hired labor saved. Had all the surplus horses been sold there would have been a further reduction of about $115 per farm in the cost of horse labor. On many of the farms there had been a reduction of feed for work stock due to the use of the tractor, and if this had been taken into account a further saving of about $47 per farm would have been shown.

The analysis of the cost per acre of power and man labor for different operations when done with tractors and horses gave the following averages:
Plowing spring and fall with tractors 1.33 per acre
Plowing spring and fall with horses 1.38 per acre
Lining with tractors 1.10 per acre
Lining with horses 1.03 per acre
Disking (tandem disk) with tractors 81 per acre
Disking (tandem disk) with horses 1.05 per acre
Drilling with tractors 68 per acre
Drilling with horses 62 per acre
Drawing binder with tractors 87 per acre
Drawing binder with horses 56 per acre

Cost of Power on Horse Farms.
A group of 85 farms where tractors were not owned, but comparable in size to those where tractors were used, were surveyed in order to obtain a direct comparison between costs on farms where tractors are owned and costs on farms of similar size and type where tractors are not owned. There was an average of 10.5 head of work stock on these farms, of which 10.1 head were needed for the work. One horse was needed for each 33 crop acres while the tractor owners were keeping one for each 42 crop acres and needed, in addition to their tractors, only one for each 54 crop acres.

The cost per head of keeping the work stock was $66 per year where tractors were not owned and $64 where they were owned. The horses worked 432 hours per head, 99 on the tractor farms and 624 hours on the other farms. The cost per farm of power for drawbar work where tractors were not used was $701 as compared with $1,025 where both tractors and horses were used.

What Farmers Think of Tractors.
The owners' opinions regarding the use of tractors showed that 75 per cent of the farmers interviewed believed that their tractors would be profitable investments, and 72 per cent of them intended to buy others when needed. The principal advantages mentioned were the ability to do more work in a given time, and the saving of horses in hot weather. Among the disadvantages, the first cost and depreciation and the running expenses were mentioned most frequently. The tractor was used as the primary source of power for field work by 59 per cent of the owners, while 41 per cent used the tractors as supplementary to horses. In 21 per cent of the cases the tractor owners believed that the tractors had been responsible for some increased yield per acre.

BARLEY BEING USED FOR FEEDING SWINE

Its Use for Brewing Purposes Has Fallen Off.

Department of Agriculture Takes Up Problem of Finding Relative Value of Light and Heavy Grades—It Is Cheap Crop.

Barley as a hog feed is coming on the markets in increasing amounts, probably for the reasons that its use for brewing purposes has fallen off and the hog industry has been moving into the barley-producing districts. The United States Department of Agriculture has taken up the problem of finding out the relative feeding value of light and heavy barley. There are no federal standards for this grain, but light and heavy grades are recognized on the market.

During 1921, the department made feeding tests of the two grades, and the trials will be repeated. Not enough data are available yet for definite conclusions as to the relative merits of the light and heavy grain, but the results have shown that high-class barley has a feeding value only slightly lower than good shelled corn. When these tests are completed the department will have additional information on the methods of feeding barley, whether or not it should be fed whole, rolled, dry or soaked.

WHAT IS THE "LAKES-TO-THE-SEA" HIGHWAY?

miles to a point west of Luthersburg. About two miles more through the Draucker Woods, is now under construction, being part of the Luthersburg contract started last year. At Ream's watering trough starts the Grampian Contract of ten and one half miles, which was let last month and on which work is being rapidly pushed. This link will run through Grampian to Curwensville, and there connect with paving that now runs without a single break through Clearfield and Philipsburg to Sandy Ridge on top of the Allegheny Mountains, a distance of thirty eight miles.

From Sandy Ridge to Tyone there is now a ten mile break but it is under contract and the work is under way. There are two separate jobs here one running from Sandy Ridge to Bald Eagle, the other from that point to the commencement of paving a mile north to Tyone.

A small break exists at Tyone, but just outside its limits paving starts that runs to Water Street, a village on the William Penn Highway. There is one break of less than a mile at Union Furnace. From this village of Water Street to Harrisburg, the Lakes-to-the-Sea and the William Penn Highways will be one and the same for several years to come. The latter, all paved, runs to Huntingdon and follows the Juniata River through to Lewistown and thence east to the Susquehanna River. There is a three mile break now under construction from Amity Hall to Clark's Ferry, along the Susquehanna. Crossing the river on the long bridge, the entrance to Harrisburg is over sixteen miles of new concrete highway on the left bank of the Susquehanna, along which the scenery is wonderfully pretty.

A Future Improvement

Here is might be well to make a digression. The Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway goes by way of Tyone to Harrisburg now because there already exists a greater amount of paving that way than will be available on the shorter Bellefonte-Lewistown route for several years. But eventually it is probable that twenty four miles will be saved on the Erie-Harrisburg distance by the paving of the twenty mile link from Philipsburg to the junction with the Snow Shoe-Bellefonte road and the paving of the old pike over Jack's Mountain to Milroy. But these links are not even under contract while all the broken links on the other route are.

From Harrisburg East

From Harrisburg it will be possible to go to Philadelphia through the beautiful Lebanon Valley to Reading or drop south to Lancaster and enter the city over the Lincoln Highway. From the State Capital it is also possible to go south to Baltimore, the other tidewater port, with practically all paved road.

The Only Practicable Route for Heavy Traffic

This, then, is the great diagonal trunk line that is nearing completion a line that will connect Erie, at the extreme northwest corner of the State with Philadelphia in the southeast corner. It is the only east and west trunk line that can ever be used for heavy truck haulage, for it is the only one that does not have on its course mountain barriers that travel slow and costly for any except passenger cars. On the whole length of the road from Erie to Philadelphia, there is scarcely a single grade that a medium powered car cannot make in high gear and most of the way the trail runs through rolling land, as in Erie and Crawford Counties, or in hill country as in Jefferson and Clearfield counties. A mountain is crossed from Philipsburg to Tyone, but the grade is so gradual that one is hardly aware of the ascent. The road from Lewistown follows the Juniata River between long mountain ranges. A few hills are encountered before the Susquehanna river is crossed at Clark's Ferry but neither there nor east of that river is there anything that resembles the terrific grades of the Lincoln Highway.

The latter road, one of the most interesting in America, is also one of the most mountainous. Ridge after ridge is crossed for over a hundred miles in the Southern part of the state, and they are usually four mile climbs with a multitude of corkscrew curves. The old National Pike, the most beautiful motoring road in America, is also one continuous succession of mountain chains from Uniontown to Hagerstown.

Future Traffic Over The Trail

People living along the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway are destined to see a volume of traffic beyond anything now existing on the other roads of WILLIAMSBURG. Thousands of automobiles are now shipped to Cleveland by water and driven east or are driven east from Detroit to points in the eastern part of the State. The natural road is from Detroit to Erie and then to Philadelphia, but now most of these are deflected south over the Lincoln Highway because of the numerous detours on the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway.

Future Motor Truck Hauling

The truck as a method of hauling freight is growing rapidly in favor, and during the war the Lincoln Highway was practically worn out by the multitude of such vehicles, called in to help out the congested railroads. These congested days will come again with prosperity, and much of the Great Lakes Freight from the west destined for Philadelphia and Baltimore, will follow the easiest road to tide water on trucks. This method of handling produce is yet in its infancy.

Pennsylvania One of Nature's Beauty Spots

No one who has motored much in other states needs to be told that in natural beauty Pennsylvania is equal to any of her neighbors and superior to most of them. The hills and mountains are but little appreciated by those who live among them all the time, yet the Berkshires, noted all over the country are not more picturesque than the hills of Clarion, Jefferson and Clearfield Counties. The only difference is that the Berkshires are crossed by miles and miles of perfect roads that make traveling delightful, while the hill country of Pennsylvania has been penetrated only by rocky pikes.

The Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway will attract thousands of tourists in future years.

In the Osman garage were six motor vehicles, all of them destroyed. The Osman residence, also built about four years ago, was a frame building. Some of the downstairs furniture was saved, but everything upstairs, including clothing, went up in smoke along with the building. Mr. Osman's estimated loss is $12,000 with partial insurance. It is expected that he will rebuild.

W. T. Hoover's barn and garage along with the contents, including a big consignment of cement and paper and some hardware stock, were ruined. The loss was about $3,000.

The loss of Williams Brothers, whose barn and garage at the grist mill was burned, is about $1,000.

Skeleton Found With Dagger in Rib

With a jeweled dagger thrust between his ribs just below the heart, the skeleton of a man was found in a very ancient terra-cotta tomb by workmen while digging the foundations for a villa at Rimini, on the Lake of Garda, Italy. Further excavations brought to light other tombs of the same kind. Rimini, which in the days of the Roman empire was a favorite resort of wealthy Romans, is now a fishing village on a narrow promontory which projects into the lake. In the neighborhood is the so-called Grotto di Capilla, the considerable remains of a Roman building said to have been the country house of Calpurnius, the famous Latin poet of Rome.

Genius Not Success Requisite

There are two kinds of success. One is the very rare kind that comes to the man who has the power to do that is genius. Only a very limited amount of the success of life comes to persons possessing genius. The average man who is successful—the average statesman, the average public servant, the average soldier, who wins what he calls great success—is not a genius. He is a man who has merely the ordinary qualities. —Theodore Roosevelt.

Delegates To Women's Club Convention Endorse Birth Control Proposal

Chautauque, N. Y., June 20.—Representatives of two million club women in the United States launched a campaign to teach the public the principles of birth control.

The board of directors of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, at a meeting held preliminary to the convention, which opened here Wednesday, went on record as favoring birth control and authorizing Mrs. Elma Blair, New York, chairman of the Welfare Department, to start an educational campaign.

To Spread Knowledge

It is the plan of the Federation directors that women all over the world be told the advantages of birth control.

After the circulation of the propaganda, an effort will be made, according to present plans, to have present restrictions against the birth control movement removed.

Improvement of the species by birth control is hoped for by the Federation, according to Mrs. James J. Reed, Director from Arkansas.

"We have received many letters from poor mothers in the slums asking for information," she said. "They say it is impossible for them to get information desired. We want to alleviate this condition. There is no doubt but what the rank and file of members of the Federation are in favor of the movement."

The women's federation of this state was the first one to sponsor the birth control movement. Mrs. George D. Hewitt, Carriage, spoke in favor of the proposition. At the meeting, the board of directors also took action to protest to Secretary of State Hughes against the recent move of the allies in putting Greek Christians under Turkish rule. This followed a letter of complaint received from the Women's Federation of Constantinople.

It was also decided to send a letter of thanks to all United States Senators who voted in favor of the naval limitations treaty. It was through the work of the general federation that four women sat in on sessions of the Washington conference.

Fifteen hundred women, from all parts of the world, are attending the convention. They represent about 50,000 clubs.

Conferences on community service, Americanization and other departments of the Federation will be held Wednesday morning.

The formal opening of the convention will come in the evening with an address by Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, Minneapolis, the president.

Philadelphia's Big Fair Will Be Called "Liberty Fair For World Peace"

The Liberty Fair for World Peace and Progress will be the title of Philadelphia's international exposition in 1926 or 1927, under an agreement reached by the Board of Directors of the Fair Association.

This opens the way for postponing the opening until 1927.

The renaming will eliminate reference to the nation's sesqui-centennial. Primarily the purpose of the exposition is to celebrate the 150th anniversary of American independence, which occurs in 1926. Should the fair be postponed until 1927 it would be held in the 151st year after the signing of the Declaration, in which event "Sesqui-Centennial" would be a misnomer.

J. LEE OWENS ACCEPTS FINE POSITION

J. Lee Owens, formerly of Curwensville, has resigned his position as Senior Accountant and Systematizer on the Staff of Ernst & Ernst, Certified Public Accountants, by whom he has been employed for over three years, to accept a responsible position with the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company, the largest independent steel company. He is well prepared to discharge the duties of this important position with the expert knowledge of accounts obtained through study and public practice.

Recently he was made a member of the Honorary Scholastic Society of Delta Mu Delta of the University of Pittsburgh from which he graduated in 1921, and presented with the gold key, tangible evidence that he attained a high ranking in his studies at the University. Lee is also a member of Alpha Kappa Psi Fraternity, Pumas Club, American Legion Post No. 5, Syria Temple of the Mystic Shrine, Pennsylvania Consistory, Georgetown Lodge of Perfection, Bellefield Royal Arch Chapter.

This One a Beauty.

Wild Carrot, or Bird's Nest, or Queen Anne's Lace, is a plant that often spreads over wide roads, says the work of the general federation that four women sat in on sessions of the Washington conference.

Fifteen hundred women, from all parts of the world, are attending the convention. They represent about 50,000 clubs.

Conferences on community service, Americanization and other departments of the Federation will be held Wednesday morning.

The formal opening of the convention will come in the evening with an address by Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, Minneapolis, the president.

HEARTBURN AND CONSTIPATION

They Quickly Make One Nervous and Sleepless

Heartburn is simply an indication of the manufacture of poisonous acid and gas in the stomach. The throat becomes the chimney of the stomach through which some of the poisonous gas escapes giving one a foul breath and causing great pain at times. Usually where one has this symptom of stomach trouble it is found that the sufferer is greatly constipated which adds to the physical discomfort and the danger of a general physical breakdown. It is astonishing the number of women who suffer from indigestion and constipation and especially when there is in every drug store a family remedy that quickly regulates and restores them to health if they will just get it and use it.

From Muskegon, Mich. Mrs. Grignon tells us that she was a great sufferer—that after eating, gas would form in her stomach, giving her heartburn and stomach pains until she could not sleep. Sometimes the gas distended her so that she had terrible pains in the shoulder blades and around the heart. Then from less than one full bottle she found such quick and certain relief that she slept soundly, ate anything she wished without discomfort and had no return of the trouble when she wrote us. You can get New-Worth at any drug store. It is always on sale at Stewart's drug store in this city—Stewart's drug store and all druggists are authorized to give the money back if the first bottle fails to give satisfaction.

PINCHOT INHERITS MANY MILLIONS OF AMOS ENO ESTATE

New York, June 21.—After seven years' litigation the will of Amos F. Eno, disposing of property worth more than $13,000,000 was admitted to probate late yesterday by Surrogate Foley.

This action followed the settlement recently of the contest, by heirs-at-law of the provisions leaving more than $4,000,000 to Columbia University and large sums to other public organizations, when the third trial of the contest was about to start.

Clarence J. Shearn, counsel for the beneficiaries named in the will, said that, while he had hoped to make public the terms of the settlement, it had been decided to keep them secret.

It is understood that Gifford Pinchot, Mr. Eno's nephew, who is the Republican candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, and other heirs-at-law who filed the contest, will receive several million dollars more than was provided by the terms of the will, but because of the increase in the value of the estate since Mr. Eno died, the share left to each beneficiary will not be less than was estimated at the time of his death.

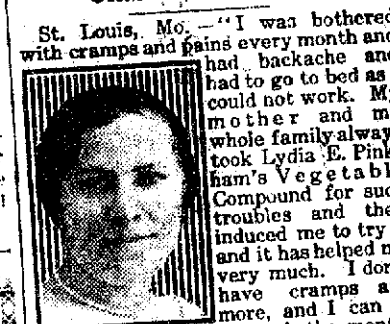

The will was probated after the subscribing witnesses, Eli G. Partidge, of Madison, N. J.; Leonard Leaman, of 332 S. Nicholas ave. and John E. Mertz of Westwood, N. J. had testified. The estate will be administered by Lucius H. Beers, the sole surviving executor because of the death of William Mitchell.

Friendless Flowers.

It has recently been discovered that flowers, like human beings, have friends and enemies in their own world. If certain varieties are put together in a vase some of them will drop almost as soon as they are placed in the water. Sweet peas, for instance, will not live in company. Some flowers, such as the magnolia, hilly of the valley, and shirley poppy have a bad effect on almost all neighbors, and are practically friendless.

CRAMPS, PAINS AND BACKACHE

St. Louis Woman Relieved by
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Louis, Mo.—"I was bothered with cramps and pains every month and had backache and had to go to bed as I could not work. My mother and my whole family always took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for such troubles and they induced me to try it and it has helped me very much. I don't have cramps any more, and I can do my housework all through the month. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends for female troubles."

Mrs. DELIA SCHOLZ, 1412 Salisbury Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Just think for a moment. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been in use for nearly fifty years. It is prepared from medicinal plants, by the utmost pharmaceutical skill, and superior methods. The ingredients thus combined in the Compound correct the conditions which cause such annoying symptoms as had been troubling Mrs. Scholz. The Vegetable Compound exercises a restorative influence of the most desirable character, correcting the trouble in a gentle but efficient manner. This is noted by the disappearance, one after another, of the disagreeable symptoms.

Delegates To Women's Club Convention Endorse Birth Control Proposal

Chautauque, N. Y., June 20.—Representatives of two million club women in the United States launched a campaign to teach the public the principles of birth control.

The board of directors of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, at a meeting held preliminary to the convention, which opened here Wednesday, went on record as favoring birth control and authorizing Mrs. Elma Blair, New York, chairman of the Welfare Department, to start an educational campaign.

To Spread Knowledge

It is the plan of the Federation directors that women all over the world be told the advantages of birth control.

After the circulation of the propaganda, an effort will be made, according to present plans, to have present restrictions against the birth control movement removed.

Improvement of the species by birth control is hoped for by the Federation, according to Mrs. James J. Reed, Director from Arkansas.

"We have received many letters from poor mothers in the slums asking for information," she said. "They say it is impossible for them to get information desired. We want to alleviate this condition. There is no doubt but what the rank and file of members of the Federation are in favor of the movement."

The women's federation of this state was the first one to sponsor the birth control movement, Mrs. George D. Hewitt, Carhage, spoke in favor of the proposition. At the meeting, the board of directors also took action to protest to Secretary of State Hughes against the recent move of the allies in putting Greek Christians under Turkish rule. This followed a letter of complaint received from the Women's Federation of Constantinople.

It was also decided to send a letter of thanks to all United States Senators who voted in favor of the naval limitations treaty. It was through the work of the general federation that four women sat in on sessions of the Washington conference.

Fifteen hundred women, from all parts of the world, are attending the convention. They represent about 50,000 clubs.

Conferences on community service, Americanization and other departments of the Federation will be held Wednesday morning.

The formal opening of the convention will come in the evening with an address by Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, Minneapolis, the president.

PINCHOT INHERITS MANY MILLIONS OF AMOS ENO ESTATE

New York, June 21.—After seven years' litigation the will of Amos F. Eno, disposing of property worth more than $13,000,000 was admitted to probate late yesterday by Surrogate Foley.

This action followed the settlement recently of the contest, by heirs-at-law of the provisions leaving more than $4,000,000 to Columbia University and large sums to other public organizations, when the third trial of the contest was about to start.

Clarence J. Shearn, counsel for the beneficiaries named in the will, said that, while he had hoped to make public the terms of the settlement, it had been decided to keep them secret.

It is understood that Gifford Pinchot, Mr. Eno's nephew, who is the Republican candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, and other heirs-at-law who filed the contest, will receive several million dollars more than was provided by the terms of the will, but because of the increase in the value of the estate since Mr. Eno died, the share left to each beneficiary will not be less than was estimated at the time of his death.

STEAMER, STRIKING PIER OF BRIDGE,
KNOCKS BRIDGE IN RIVER IN JERSEY;
MILLION DOLLARS LOSS; NO LIVES LOST

Jersey City, N. J. June 22.—A steamer striking the pier of the Hackensack River bridge and sending the bridge into the river was the cause for the summoning of ambulances today from all directions as it was at first supposed that many persons had been killed or injured.

The bridge is of steel, five hundred feet long, carrying the Lincoln Highway across the Hackensack River between Newark and Jersey City. Police reported that no one was injured and the ambulances were sent back. Five men who were standing on the draw when the steamer struck were thrown into the river but were rescued by passing boats. The steamer which struck the bridge is the Glenardel. Damage to the bridge is estimated at over a million dollars.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 22.—Frank C. Monogan, one of the wealthiest residents of Uniontown, today started a one year's sentence in the Allegheny County jail for violation of the Prohibition laws. Monogan was convicted two years ago under State laws and took the case before the United States Supreme Court where his conviction was upheld.

KEPHART HITS REPORT WITH
PLAIN DENIAL

Harrisburg, June 21.—Former State Treasurer Harmon M. Kephart tonight issued a statement in which he declared there were no irregularities in the use of contingent and deficiency funds appropriated to his department by the Legislature of 1917 and 1919. He says that the alleged irregularities shown in the reports of auditors to Auditor General Lewis will be fully explained when the Treasury investigation hearings are resumed.

Kephart calls particular attention to the fact that at the end of his term he turned back to the State Treasury $3,600, an unexpended balance which remained in the hands under question. He says that he did not pay personal bills or notes with money except what was legally his. The former state treasurer in his statement said:

"The use of the contingent and deficiency funds of the State Treasury during my term as State Treasurer, which are dwelt upon and questioned in the report of the auditors to Attorney General Lewis today, were regular in every way and will be explained when the hearings are resumed.

"I handled the contingent funds in the same manner that they are handled by other State departments. When it was necessary to advance funds for business trips or other purposes, as was occasionally the case, a check was drawn and an accounting made later. This accounts for the use of some of the checks for small amounts of which I am charged with making payments in private matters. This I never did unless it was with money legally due me. And I used the checks in the same manner that I or any other State Employee would have used their semi monthly pay check to pay bills.

"I did reimburse myself for traveling expenses, but under the impression that this was the practice of the state officials. I never knew until today of former Attorney General Brown's opinion that such expenses could not be paid, and am ready to refund these amounts if I was wrong in the use of that money. On these trips I transacted business for the State in Pittsburgh, Washington, Philadelphia and other cities.

All the persons named as receiving payments from the contingent fund rendered services to the State for them, which I will be able to show.

PORT MATILDA HAD
VERY COSTLY BLAZE
TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Overtured Blow Torch
In Garage Starts Fire
Which Quickly Spreads
To Other Buildings.

OSSMAN IS BURNED

A fire at Port Matilda Tuesday afternoon was the most disastrous in the history of that thriving and enterprising village in the Bald Eagle Valley, entailing an exceedingly heavy property loss.

Starting shortly before 3 o'clock, when a gasoline blow torch in the public garage of Samuel S. Ossman was overturned, setting fire to the interior, it seemed only a few minutes until the flames were beyond control and menacing the entire town.

There is a water system in Port Matilda, and the residents did what they could to stay the flames, but the effort was of little avail. A telephone call was sent to the fire departments of Tyrone and Philipsburg, and firemen from both towns responded. The Tyrone crowd, with a motor pumper, reached the scene first, Philipsburg firemen with the Reliance pumper arriving a few minutes later. But there was little for the firemen to do, as the flames had already gotten in their work of destruction, consuming everything within reach. Fortunately there was little or no wind, or there might have been a different story to tell.

Samuel J. Ossman, one of the wealthiest of the fire losers, and in whose garage the fire started, was painfully burned when the gasoline in the garage caught. He was brought to the Cottage State Hospital here where his injuries, consisting of a burn on the neck and arm, were attended to. He was enabled to leave the hospital last evening and returned to Port Matilda. Fred Woodring was also burned on the right arm.

The buildings destroyed were the public garage and undertaking establishment owned by Mr. Ossman; house, owned and occupied by Mr. Ossman and family; cement house, barn and private garage, owned by W. T. Hoover, hardware merchant, and William Bros. grist mill, barn and garage.

The Ossman residence also built upon establishment was a frame building 30 by 60 feet, one story. The garage was in the front, the under-

FIELD MARSHAL SIR HENRY WILSON
SHOT DEAD JUST OUTSIDE HIS HOME
—MURDERERS ARE CAUGHT—

London, England, June 22.—Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson was shot dead this morning outside of Eaton Square by two assassins. The men were captured.

Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson was Great Britain's representative on the Allied Supreme Council which dictated the Allies policy during the war. He was also chief of staff of the British army and was responsible for sending troops to Ireland during the recent trouble. The War Office believes that Irish extremists were responsible for the assassination.

London, England, June 22.—Two soldiers of the Irish Republican Army today shot to death Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson in front of his residence at Eaton Square here today. The assassins were captured after they had put up a running fight and shot three policemen and one citizen. One attempted suicide. The murder of Wilson is believed to be part of a wide spread plot to assassinate opponents of the Irish Republican cause and guards were redoubled in Whitehall and about Lloyd George's residence in Downing Street.

REEDSVILLE HOSE
COMPANY RIGHT UP
FRONT IN SERVICE

The activities of the Reedsville Hose Co., in promoting the neighborhood movement and in co-operating with the recreation program of Clearfield Community Service have been meeting with great results and deserve much credit. In addition to opening their social rooms for neighborhood events, the Hose Co., are backing the base ball team, the Reedsville Indians, have a large number of men playing volleyball each evening, and expect soon to develop some horse shoe pitchers that will make the West Side look to their laurels. The latest action along this line was taken at the meeting of the company early this week, when they unanimously voted to give an evening's work to making and installing sand boxes, swings and see saws on the children's playground, and to have a festival in the near future for the benefit of the playground.

NEAR MEADVILLE

Meadville, Pa., June 22.—A large pocket of gas was struck at a depth of 220 feet today on the E. A. De Vore farm, in West Mead Township, Crawford County, by the Neason Oil Company. Officials of the company declared the pocket is a large one and that it has enough pressure to insure a large output.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Harris, of Ogden Avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ida, to Morris Isenberg, of Houtzdale, Pa. No date has been set for the wedding.

LIVE WIRE TOUCHED
FUSE ON FIREWORKS
AND MOOLEY BAWLS

A lot of the youngsters of the city who expected to go out of town to the store of Frank Spingola to buy their supply of fireworks are doomed to disappointment. This morning while the fire crackers, roman candles etc., were on display in this store which is just across the borough line somebody allowed fire or a spark to come too close to them and immediately there was a display of pyrotechnics which any youngster would have travelled miles to see. The firemen were quickly on hand but before their arrival the use of a garden hose had brought the fire under control and the building was rescued from it. One version of the origin of the fire is that a young man touched one of the fuses with the end of a live wire.

AUTOIST SPEEDS
PAST GIRL WHO
TRIED HOLD-UP

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 22.—A girl bandit and two male accomplices, who at the point of revolvers held up John Murray as he was driving his automobile along the Saltzberg road near Sandy Creek, were being sought by police today. The girl described as short and pretty stood in the middle of the road and with drawn weapon ordered Murray to halt. Instead of doing so, however, Murray stepped on the gas and fled from the scene with out having to turn over any valuables.

Daughter and Mother on Same Jury

Because a mother and daughter agreed, a Cincinnati slayer must die. The mother and daughter both were members of the jury that tried him. They're Miss Jesse Imogene Wright and Mrs. Fannie Bell Wright.

MAINE ELECTION IS
VERY ENCOURAGING
TO THE PRESIDENT

Washington, June 20.—President Harding feels very good over the Maine and Minnesota primary results bringing victory to his two intimate associates Senators Hale and Kelllogg. While not desiring to make any comment on the outcome of primaries, either those just held or those preceding them, it is human nature as the President says, to have personal feelings in such matters.

As a matter of fact, the whole administration leadership is feeling much better, breathing more easily and in every way inclined to be more cheerful as a result of Monday's political results. It is the first real ray of sunshine that has come to the organization directors since the primaries began. Senator McCormick, chairman of the Republican Senatorial campaign, issued a statement declaring the nomination of both his conferees meant their re-election, and that whatever differences of opinion there may exist among Republicans, there is none of the conviction that Democrats will control either branch of Congress after the fall elections.

Neither the Maine nor Minnesota primaries developed the intense interest that the Indians, Pennsylvania and Iowa primaries produced. The vote was light and there were no outstanding issues of national significance. The next contest of real importance is that in North Dakota, June 28, where Senator McCumber, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, has a bitter contest on his hands. Recent reports from the state indicate that McCumber's chances are improving somewhat over the low ebb reached a few weeks ago.

Bad Situation Has Developed In One
Illinois Coal Town

Marion, Ill., June 22.—Fifty strike breaking miners being conducted from the mine of the Southern Illinois Coal Company near Herren were taken into custody by a mob of 1000 strike sympathizers today. The mob surrounded the strike breakers who were being marched from the mine after the operators had announced that no further attempts would be made to operate the mine with strike breakers. On taking the strike breakers into custody the mob began to march toward Herren where they planned to put the men aboard a train.

Marion, Ill., June 22.—After having been stormed by strikers the Southern Illinois Coal Company's mine was shut down here today. The one hundred strike breakers who have been operating it were conducted beyond the strike zone. Two persons were killed in the fighting yesterday. W. J. Lester, president of the miners announced he would make no further attempt to operate with strike breakers.

The pit was stormed by a crowd of 2,500 strikers and strike sympathizers on Wednesday when word was received from United Mine Workers headquarters in Indianapolis that the shovel men's union, to which the strike breakers claimed to belong was authorized and outlawed by the American Federation of Labor.

Herrin, Ill., June 21.—Several persons were reported killed and a number of injuries this afternoon when shooting occurred six miles east of here between striking miners and men employed at the strip mine of the Southern Illinois Coal Company, which began operations last week.

Among those reported killed were three union striking miners. About 100 men are employed at the strip mine and a crowd of more than 500 is reported to have marched on the camp late this afternoon.

Earlier a crowd of half a hundred men invaded hardware stores, attempting to purchase arms. When refused they ransacked the Bray North Company, the Herrin Supply (Continued on Page 7.)

What Is the "Lakes-To-The-Sea" Highway?

What is the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway? Where does it start? Where does it end? How much of it is now paved? How much of it is unpaved but under contract to be paved?

There is much misunderstanding in regard to it. There is a lack of appreciation of its future importance thru lack of correct maps and information. To the majority it is a name and nothing more. The writer has driven over every mile of the trail and the article below is intended to make clear to the public the exact present condition of the road.

The Name

The term, Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway was originally applied to a plan for a road connecting the Great Lakes at Erie with the tide water at Philadelphia or Baltimore. Lee B. Humphrey, a brick and tile manufacturer of Brookville, was the first man to advocate it, and spent much of his own money and time to arouse the interest of the officials of the State Highway Department and of the commissioners of the counties affected. In its conception it seemed a scheme not likely to be realized for a score of years to come, and because at that time it was assumed that each county would have to pay part of the expense, it was strenuously opposed to in some quarters. Nobody cared much who had the honor of discovering its potential advantages. Unlooked for developments made possible the realization of the dream in a few short years, and now there are many clamoring credit for its conception who never aided it in its formative stage.

The Men Who Made It Possible

Originally a determined effort was made to put the trail from Erie to Harrisburg along a more northerly route, through Warren, Kane, Ridgway, Emporium and Williamsport, and but for the determined fight put up by Mr. Humphrey and associate Jefferson County people and the direct personal influence of Governor William C. Sproul, it is likely that this other route would have been adopted.

To Governor Sproul is due much of the credit for the early construction of the through link. He took a personal interest in seeing that the complete route was paved, and under his direction approximately $10,000,000 will have been spent on the highway before the completion of his term. That is much more than has been expended on any other cross country trail.

Charles S. Lord, editor of the Reynoldsville Star, has compiled the following interesting story on the Lakes-To-The-Sea Highway which is now so near completion. It is a source of great satisfaction that Clearfield is on this highway which is certain to handle a large percentage of the cross-state travel. From the Atlantic Ocean to Lake Erie on solid high way is an ambitious program but it is being carried out. The principal towns tapped are Philadelphia, Lancaster, Harrisburg, Liverpool, Lewisport, Huntingdon, Tyrone, Philipsburg, Clearfield, Reynoldsville, Brookville, Clairton, Franklin, Meadville to Erie.

Its Northern Terminal

The trail starts in the city of Erie. At that point it connects with a road officially known as the Toledo-Cleveland-Buffalo trail, which is a trunk line paralleling the shore of Lake Erie, connecting these three great cities, and is practically all improved. From Erie, the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway runs due South to Waterford, a village of 700, which gained undue fame in pioneer years as the northern terminal of the Susquehanna and Waterford Turnpike. In fact the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway itself for many miles will be simply a glorified concrete revival of that pioneer dirt road through the wilderness.

From Erie to Waterford, about thirteen miles the road is paved. From Waterford south to the Crawford County line, there is a six mile break that is now under contract to be paved. There is then six miles of paving into Venango, a small village. From Venango South there is a six mile break in the paving, but it is now under construction. At Sagertown, a town made widely famous by the mineral water bottled there, paving starts again and runs into Meadville, a city of almost thirteen thousand people and the seat of Allegheny College.

Immediately south of Meadville, there is a stretch of approximately eighteen miles that is unpaved but it is all under contract at the present time. At Wyattville paving commences and runs into Franklin, five or six miles.

An Unpaved Stretch

Just west of Franklin is the only considerable stretch on this statewide trail that is not paved and which is not under contract. The road to Cranberry, six miles, is over a very rough and steep hill and presents several engineering problems that will have to be worked out. But this rough stretch may be avoided by going from Franklin to Oil City, and from Oil City back to Salina, both of which links are paved.

From Cranberry to a point three miles west of Shippensburg, it is unpaved, a distance of about ten miles, but contractors are now at work on the entire stretch. From that point the road is paved three miles into Clarion and from Clarion to a point near Strattonville. From Strattonville thru Corsica to Roseville, about seven miles The road is under contract and work about one half completed. Four miles out of Brookville paving recommences and runs thru Brookville on for six miles through Emmerickville. The five and one-half miles from Emmerickville to Reynoldsville Borough is now under construction.

From Reynoldsville East

XI. CONDENSERS

These appliances are a most important part of a wireless set, as without them the oscillations, even if detected by the instruments, would be very weak and faint. They are divided broadly into two classes known as Fixed Condensers and Variable Condensers, the former being the simplest, and the latter the most efficient, for while a fixed condenser is always of one capacity and can only be increased or decreased by adding to or subtracting from the number of sheets, the variable type may be altered or adjusted at will by a knob or handle, thus tuning or adjusting the receiving circuit exactly as a tuning coil is adjusted, but much more delicately, as the adjustment of a tuning coil consists in shortening the length of coil by jumping connections from one turn of wire to another to alter wave lengths, whereas, the condenser adjustment is slow, even and gradual and alters capacity, but it must not be forgotten that a condenser and some sort of coil or similar device must be employed to get satisfactory results. The simplest form of fixed condenser consists of a number of alternating sheets of tin-foil and waxed paper or mica, the alternate sheets of foil being connected by wires which are in turn connected with the terminals where required.

To make a fixed condenser it is only necessary to lay sheets of tin-foil between sheets of waxed paper and connect them. A very efficient little fixed condenser, to be used by shunting across the receivers of a small set, or as a grid-condenser with a vacuum tube set, can be made, as shown in Fig. 23. Have some smooth tin-foil, free from holes or tears, and cut two pieces about one inch in length and one-half an inch wide. Then, from thoroughly waxed paper—which can be purchased or can be made by soaking good quality writing paper in paraffine wax—cut three pieces 2½ inches in length and 3 inches wide. On one of these pieces place a piece of the foil; then cover this with a second strip of paper, place the other strip of foil over this and cover with the last strip of paper. Be very sure that the edges of the tin-foil are well within the margins of paper and are accurately in line or centered. In fact, before placing them, it is wise to draw a square the size of the foil on each piece of paper, spacing it equidistant from edges, and arrange the foil to fit this. Fig. 24. Next cut two pieces of light wire five or six inches long (flexible stranded wire is best), spread the strands at one end of each piece apart and place one of these frayed and spread ends on the lowest piece of foil between it and the bottom paper. Next, place the other, frayed and spread the same way, on the upper piece of foil at the opposite end and with a few drops of hot paraffine fix them in place on the edges of the paper. Then, roll the whole, being careful not to displace the foil (this may be secured to each piece of paper with a few drops of paraffine at the edges) and form a small cylinder Fig. 25. Wind the cylinder tightly with fine thread at each end, as shown, or wrap with adhesive tape and dip the whole into hot paraffine. In using this condenser with a crystal set it is only necessary to shunt, or connect it, across your phone receiver wires, but if using it in a vacuum tube set you must use a grid-leak shunted across it. This is merely a piece of cardboard placed between two blinding-posts or terminals and with several soft lead-pencil lines drawn across it from post to post. In order to be sure that a good connection is made, draw pencil marks about the holes where posts are to be inserted. The distance between posts should be not over five-eighths of an inch. Sometimes drawing ink (made of carbon, for writing ink will not serve) is used in place of lead pencil, but the latter has the advantage that the lines can be varied or adjusted to give best results by means of an eraser.

Variable condensers are much more difficult to make and while any ingenious boy can make them, it is usually cheaper to purchase them ready made. There are two common forms, one known as the sliding plate, Fig. 26, the other as the rotary, Fig. 27. The former consists of a number of metal plates, which slide back and forth in a frame, case or box provided with grooves and fixed plates. The rotary type consists of a number of semicircular plates of metal so arranged as to rotate or swing past a series of fixed discs. In each form, the air spaces between the plates correspond to the waxed paper between the strips of foil on the fixed condensers. By means of either of these two variable forms, fine adjustment of capacity may be obtained. Many people cannot understand the function of a condenser, but, broadly speaking, it is to store up electrical energy and then suddenly release it, as the current passing through is interrupted, varied or broken. In other words, to increase the oscillations.

Although most small sets will operate with a fixed condenser and a variable one is not necessary, yet the variable type will always improve the receiver and will permit much finer tuning than a tuning coil of any type by itself.

SWIMMING IS GOOD EXERCISE FOR ALL MEMBERS OF FAMILY

Corsan tells how sport benefits everyone. Many muscles are used.

Swimming can easily be classed among the most wholesome forms of recreation. Old and young, men and women, boys and girls, are found wherever suitable conditions warrant their entering the water. The exhilaration experienced in the water soon brushes aside all instinct of fear and nothing but real wholesome recreation which increases with leaps and bounds in direct proportion to the improved proficiency of the swimmer. Results soon become manifest and once puny and weakly children develop into the ideal athlete with long and slender muscles, properly proportioned and symmetrically developed.

The swimmer as a type is almost in a class by himself owing to the all around nature of the sport. Arms, body and legs get their proportionate amount of exercise and relaxation. A great deal of swimming is relaxation and therefore suitable for anyone.

Swimming offers sport to the most strenuous and to the weak. Cases of crippled children and victims of infantile paralysis who can swim, and swim well are not uncommon. The aged find relief and sport and the athletic the keenest competition. The internal organs are strengthened, making the swimmer organically efficient, strengthening the heart lungs and visceral organs, improving circulation and respiration and producing a condition of health and well being, experienced only by a few mortals. The nervous system is soothed and quieted by the tonic effect of the water, air and sunshine; in short the entire body receives its full share of stimulation, exercise and recreation

The builders of a stadium for a California university must have had possible visitors in mind as they worked, for they have built it to last twenty thousand years. Built of gravel, sand, and water-worn stones—materials such as a glacier carries and deposits—the stadium will outlive the world's greatest amphitheatres, according to the estimates of engineers in charge. Terminal moraines, or glacial deposits, they point out, have resisted the action of the elements for many thousand years without materially altering their shape.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

Clearfield County sportsmen will do well to keep posted regarding the recommendations to be made to the coming Legislature by Governor Spraul's Reorganization Commission, which has been devoting some time to the proposition of reorganizing the different governmental departments at Harrisburg. The following from Seth E. Gordon, Secretary of the State Game Commission, is timely and should be read by all interested in hunting and fishing.

If this subject is to be considered, the bulk of our present law pamphlet can be reduced from 35 to 40 pages, while this is being done, it has been suggested that the following slight changes be made.

1—Change the hunters' license year so that it will expire April 30th instead of December 31st, and then require the wearing of the tag when hunting for birds and animals, game or otherwise, by any method. This will take away the present inducement for men to try and evade the law, claiming they are hunting for animals not classed as game.

2—Prohibit boys under the age of 17 years to hunt, except when accompanied by a responsible adult, unless on lands upon which they reside.

3—Increase the non-resident license fee to $15 instead of $10 as now.

4—Provide for uniform season for all small game for November only.

5—Prohibit the killing of deer except bucks with two or more points to one antler, regardless whether such animals has an antler on the other side or not.

6—Prohibit the sale of game of any kind except rabbits killed in another state and shipped into this state, and racoons.

7—License fur buyers so as to protect our rural people against unscrupulous fur buyers, also require sworn report of skins purchased before renewal.

8—Many sportsmen suggest that the woodchuck be given the same protection now accorded the skunk and muskrats with a slight different season largely because the woodchuck is the home builder for rabbits. After consulting with many sportsmen, I believe it would be advisable to give this matter serious consideration.

Legislation to Which Sportsmen May Object

The Re-organization Commission has been carefully studying the operation of the various departments of the state government and will undoubtedly bring about desirable improvements in the various activities if their recommendations are adopted in the next Legislature, through the public press sportsmen have been informed. Although I have nothing officially on the subject that said commission will probably recommend two changes in which the sportsmen of the state are vitally interested. The first is the possibility of having the hunters license funds and all other special or "ear-marked" funds, deposited in the general fund of the Commonwealth, requiring the sportsmen to go before the Legislature at each session and ask that body to appropriate to the same commission the funds deposited by the sportsmen. It is claimed I believe that pooling all "special funds" in the treasury is necessary in order to establish a workable budget system for the Commonwealth. The Reorganization has already been informed that the conditions under which the resident hunters' license act was passed, namely, that the sportsmen of the state were solemnly promised that their funds would always be kept in a special fund separate and apart solely for their work so that not a single cent could not be used for any other purpose. Hundreds of sportsmen take the position that this should be continued and that they should not take a chance on having their work hampered in any way.

The second is, I am also informed through the public press, that the Re-organization Commission may recommend the increase of State Police force and disperse with the services of a large part of our field organization of the Game Commission the Department of Fisheries and the Department of Forestry. The Commission has been advised that while the State Police is a splendid organization and deserve the support of our good citizens everywhere, the work of protecting and enforcing the laws concerning game and wild birds means not only an exercise of police powers, but that our field organization devote 75 per cent of their time and effort along educational lines. If such changes were made, a goodly number of our officers would be necessary to look after the stocking and feeding of game in the wintertime, and many other activities of the Department that the State Policemen could not undertake.

W. C. T. U. HOLDS DUE SOCIAL

Yesterday evening a Due Social was held at the home of Mrs. Channing Howard, by the W. C. T. U. The large number present made it a splendid success and also made a glad treasurer. A number signified their intention of getting two new memberships apiece, to make the required gain of 88,000 in Pennsylvania, in the year.

Miss LaRue Chorpennig spoke of the Y. P. B. convention to meet in DuBois the coming Monday, the 26th. A memorable occasion in the history of the Pennsylvania Y. P. B. not only because all the central officers of the State W. C. T. U. and the National Secretary of the Y. P. B. but also the highest official in the body, Miss Anna A. Gordon, National President and Acting World's President will be there.

The members were delightfully entertained during the serving of refreshments by Mrs. Clara Howard Brown and brother, with numbers on the piano and flute and also by the Misses Jean and Zula Mapes of Jersey Shore with enjoyable selection on the piano and amusing recitations by the latter.

The Dog and the Cat

Dogs, like horses, remember the sound of the language of their masters, and even after many years in a foreign land can remember the meaning of sentences. Cats seem incapable of comprehending the human tongue.

THOSE WILSON "IDEALS"

While it is reported that Woodrow Wilson is in better health than he was a year ago, his recent letter-writing proclivities do not indicate that he has learned the lesson of events. The number of letters he has written, however, corroborate the report of the improved state of his health.

From the expressions which have found their way to the public there is no evidence that Mr. Wilson is in any closer touch with public sentiment than when he was a recluse in the white house. Then he took counsel with none and even listened to few. Since his retirement from the presidency he has been isolated still more. Thus the views he expresses are those he arrives at in the seclusion of his library any may have no relation to the thoughts of men in the active world. So far as he has made concrete statement, "idealism" embodies defeat of men who thwarted his ambitions.

It may be assumed also that the "idealism" to which he refers has connection with the League of Nations, though there is not the slightest proof that the attitude of Americans toward that organization as it now exists has changed a particle since the middle of 1920. Thus he voices a wish rather than a conviction when he affects to discern signs of an increased adherence to his peculiar views. Having set his hopes on forcing the United States into a league which, as developed, was anything but what had been expected, he still clings to the idea that it will prevail. As president he took little note of public sentiment through ascertainment of it and now, naturally, he knows less about it.

Thus his views as to conditions are of no greater value than those of any other man in effect secluded from the world.

NAVY SNOBS GET A T. R. REBUKE

The official rebuke administered by the acting Secretary of the Navy, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, to the editors of the "Lucky Bag," the year book of the 1922 graduating class at Annapolis, would have done credit to his father.

The insults publicly offered one of the members of the class, Leonard Kaplan, were at first supposed to be directed against his race. The victim and his friends apparently incline now to a different belief, which they adopt all the more easily because it transpires that on a number of previous occasions the cadet year book has singled out this or that fellow cadet to be abused in malicious lampoons. On these previous occasions the victims were Gentiles; the attacks are therefore apparently not due to racial malice.

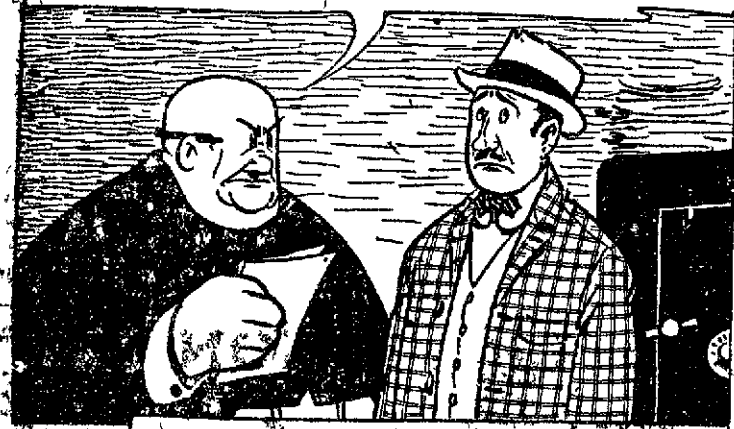

Whatever the motive, the practice calls for the indignant contempt of all decent people. Secretary Roosevelt told the responsible editor on the present occasion, "Your action casts a grave doubt as to your possession of those qualifications essential to any officer in the United States Navy." The rebuke added that "the department will require from you in the future evidence of a fundamental change in your attitude toward your companions in the service."

This was the right way in which to apprise the offenders of the seriousness of their misconduct. If they are so lacking in high principle as not to be aware intuitively that the command of ships is no post for blackguards they need to be told in that illuminating style of speech which is rightly called Rooseveltian.

What member of the army, navy or the dusty engineers, or the quarter-master corps, tank corps, medics or balloon corps, etc., etc., who served overseas during the World War ever found a photograph similar to the one reproduced here? If that member of the etc., etc., will surrender it to its owner, who prizes it most highly for sentimental reasons, naturally, two hearts will beat violently as one.

The photograph is that of Mrs. Harriet Finn of Indiana. It was carried next his heart by her soldier sweet heart, and in the well-known tumult and confusion of a battle around Chateau Thierry, or at St. Mihiel, or in the Argonne or while his baggage was being very considerably cared for some place far back of the lines the photograph was lost. Men who went through the same mill will know that neglect didn't lose the photo, but as some one has so well said, but few girls got into those battles.

The photograph shown here was made from the same photo as the battle-scarred one that is being sought. The gentleman who found it, if any, may communicate with the Legion's headquarters at Indianapolis, Ind.

EIGHTEEN HOURS IN WATER

Spending eighteen hours holding to the edge of a life raft in icy water after saving a shipmate's life, made Philip J. Burger eligible for the unusual honor of a decoration from the Portuguese government and the American Distinguished Service medal.

Burger was a second class gunner's mate on the American destroyer Jacob Jones, when she was torpedoed by a German submarine off Lands End, England in December 1917. Burger and the shipmate whose life he saved were among the few survivors picked up by a British warship after eighteen hours in the water.

He is now receiving vocational training in his home city, Troy, N. Y. and is a midshipman in the Noble Callahan post of the American Legion at Troy.

NO JOB, GIVES HIS BLOOD

Former Service Man of Omaha Aid Sufferer and His Own Family at Same Time.

The heroic spirit of man has not always been born under the shadow of awe-inspiring mountains, on the rock-bound coast of the sea, or in the busy crowded ways of a great city. Fred W. Smith of Omaha has never lived in the presence of those magnificent and noble works of God or man. In fact his days have been spent on an unromantic Nebraska farm, in an Omaha packing plant and in the kitchen of a base hospital in France.

But these things have not kept him from being the true hero. Not long ago, when a man was dying in an Omaha hospital and the doctors believed that a pint of human blood might save his life, Fred Smith went immediately to the hospital and offered to let as much blood as was needed be taken from his body. "I was strong and a little blood didn't mean much to me if it would save the other fellow's life," he said.

His act gained all the more commendation because he had a wife and two small children to support and was out of a job.

Carrying On With the American Legion

A tourist park for Fred Fordsters is projected by the American Legion post of Tracy, Minn.

To give the town a thorough cleaning and brightening up for the summer, each member of the Legion post of Villard, Minn., donated a day's work.

A new definition of the well-known army phrase "S. O. L." has been evolved by the Douglas county Legionnaires of Omaha, Neb. It is "Staying Outta Legion."

At Grant's Tomb in New York a tree has been transplanted from the dooryard of the General's old home in Missouri by the Legion and the American Forestry association.

TO ENGLAND AGAIN WITH BRAVE HEART

New York, N. Y., June 22.—"I'd give my other eye to make England dry, it would be well worth it." "Pussfoot" Johnson, rum's arch enemy, made this assertion to day in an interview with a representative of the United Press just before sailing for England. When informed that London was planning to greet him with stones over pipe eggs and tomatoes the prohibition Agent chuckled "Say, that's great. Let 'em come. I can fight and tell them England will be dry in 1935 if not sooner. She is bound to go dry. She can't help it. Economic pressure will be brought to bear. It will be necessary for England to go dry in order to continue in world trade. Since this country went dry foreign business has increased three fold while England's has slumped. That proves that England will be unable to compete with dry America. She will have to follow suit or disappear from the foreign trade horizon."

New York, N. Y., June 22.—Search for two additional "love nests" where Walter S. Ward is suspected of having entertained a constant stream of women visitors during the absence of his wife and children at Palm Beach was today the feature in the Ward-Peters murder mystery. A certain kmons which hung behind the bath room door of Ward's main "love nest" and which was found crumpled on the floor after the visit of a mysterious woman forms another link in the chain. Bing & Bing, agents for the house in which the millionaire's son maintained his flat, finally objected to the stream of women visitors to this bachelor apartment and Ward was forced to find a new "love nest." When this is found new developments and revelations are expected.

We Found What We Believed Tires and Tubes Should Be

The open driving season has borne out our claims about the values we offer in Oldfield Tires. Customers who have put these tires on their cars are reporting the kind of service and mileage we promised.

When we chose to handle Oldfields, we found they lived up to our ideas of what tires should be. Barney Oldfield's lifetime of experience and study had not been wasted. Oldfield construction both cord and fabric has demonstrated unmistakable superiority.

Oldfield Tubes, likewise have shown their superiority in the severest of all tests—the big racing classic, where Oldfield equipped cars invariably win.

You'll appreciate why we are so enthusiastic when you test Oldfield mileage and realize how low is the cost.

buying more carefully than ever.

Studebaker increased its sales 29% in 1921, though the industry, as a whole, showed a falling off of nearly 45%. 1922, up to May 1st, shows a gain in Studebaker production of 143% over the same period of 1921.

Studebaker sales records tell their own story. The buying public has declared for Studebaker's superiority.

: News of : Our Neighbors

CURWENSVILLE

Yesterday was the longest day in
year but we haven't heard any one
say they noticed any particular difference.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. R. D.
Swoope entertained twenty-five ladies
of the Susquehanna Chapter of the
D. A. R. at her home here. All had a pleasant time and voted Mrs.
Swoope a delightful hostess.

Mrs. W. A. Thompson entertained
three tables of cards this afternoon
in honor of Miss Alice Bilger.

Miss Margaret Hipps will arrive
this evening from Grove City to
spend her vacation with her parents,
Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Hipps.

Mrs. Carrie Boyer Rutter of Clearfield spent part of yesterday with friends in town.

There has been a change in the personnel of the American Legion. Clifford Murray, Post Finance officer
and social chairman has resigned. He has filled the position most admirably
and the Legion, the Auxiliary and the Community at large regret his resignation. The social affair which he has sponsored have been wonderfully enjoyable but he has accepted a lucrative position with the Mount Union Refractories Co. and will leave
very soon to assume his new duties.
His many friends here wish him eminent success in his new field.

In his stead, Mr. Jas. M. Thomp-
son has been elected to fill the chair
of Post Finance Officer and the Legion should be commended on their choice, as he is a man of experience
along these lines and will be a complete success in this office. Jake Kan-tar, who has been back of so many social successes in our town becomes
chairman of the entertainment committee and we can look for some good things under his management.
Just here let us say, the Legion

has inaugurated a National Campaign for membership. When we consider that the Legion is caring for
one million disabled and incapacitated
men, we can realize the huge task
which they have undertaken. The Legion stands for all that is finest
and best in American citizenship and
every person who is eligible to membership in either the Legion or the Auxiliary should feel it not only an honor but a duty to accept that membership and assume the tasks which
it may entail.

Mr. Abe Robinson, of Clearfield,
was in town yesterday.

Did you know that our Boys' Marine Band, that aggregation of which we are so proud, will go to Clearfield
on Sunday and give a concert at the Court House? They are a success in large letters.

J. J. Thomas and daughter, of Olanta were Curwensville shoppers yesterday.

Mrs. Chas Smith of Akron, Ohio, is visiting relatives in town.

Jake Kantar, who has been the efficient scout master of the local Troop has resigned his office and Rev. Bertram H. Conley has been elected in his stead. While the boys regret having to give up Mr. Kantar as he has taken an active interest in their work and made Scoutship desirable to a marked degree—they are to be congratulated on having a man like Rev. Mr. Conley in his stead. A man of broad experience in dealing with boys, and appreciating all that the scout code stands for in better citizenship, Mr. Conley is, by all means, the man for the place and every boy of scout age should become a scout. Every parent should realize that the highest aim of the Boy Scouts is to become good citizens, from every standpoint and should urge membership upon their sons that they may be benefited morally, mentally, and physically, which is the true aim of the Boy Scout, for they are taught throughout that only by being mentally, morally and physically fit are they in truth desirable American citizens.

Beginning the Day.

DEMOCRATIC STATE PLATFORM IS HARD ON REPUBLICANS

Harrisburg, Pa. June 20.—(United News)—The platform of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania drafted
by its platform committee here today
for the coming campaign, concentrated its emphasis on a blast of criticism of Republican rule both state
and national. The platform charged
that "the administration of the state
has been inefficient and corrupt" and
that the Republican administration
and Congress have wasted months in viable folly while commerce is paralyzed and civilization disintegrates.
After outlining the principal features of Republican rule as viewed
through Democratic glasses, it stated
the Democratic party of Pennsylvania
furnishes the only practical instrument for the accomplishment of
necessary reforms.

The following policies were promised in event of Democratic success
in November.

Investigation of administration affairs and punishment of corrupt officials, if found guilty. Greater local self government.

Tax revision: flinging more of burden to classes more able to pay, including constitutional amendment

permitting graduated inheritance
tax.

Budget system.
Appropriations to be kept within
revenues. Complete and adequate enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment.

Colloidal Chemistry.

Colloidal chemistry is the chemistry
of systems consisting of extremely finely divided material, such as bubbles,
drops, grains, filaments and films in
a state of suspension in other material.
The chemist calls this system a "heterogeneous system consisting of a dispensed phase in a dispersion medium." Colloidal chemistry therefore is
a study of extremely finely divided suspensions.

STOP ITCHING SKIN

Zemo the Clean, Antiseptic
Liquid, Gives Prompt Relief

There is one safe, dependable treatment that relieves itching torture and
that cleanses and soothes the skin.
Ask any druggist for a 35c or $1 bottle
of Zemo and apply it as directed. Soon
you will find that irritations, Pimples,
Blackheads, Eczema, Blisters, Ring-
worm and similar skin troubles will disappear.

Zemo, the penetrating, satisfying
liquid, is all that is needed, for it
banishes most skin eruptions, makes
the skin soft, smooth and healthy.

Removing Splinters.
Sometimes a splinter gets under the
nail so solidly that it is difficult to draw out. If a cold-water bandage is put around the top of the finger
and kept wet and cold it will in time
loosen the splinter and minimize the danger of festering.

Carelessness Costs Large Sum.
A lighting expert says that about $200,000,000 worth of light is wasted
every year through failure to keep
globes, reflectors, lamps and other
light fixtures free from dust and dirt.
Frequent cleaning of this equipment
is a necessary measure of economy.

SURVEY SHOWS DIFFERENCE IN COST OF TRACTOR AND HORSES

Horses Being Used to Prepare Seed Bed.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The cost of power on tractor farms in the winter wheat belt is somewhat greater than when horses are used for all the work, according to the results of a survey by the United States Department of Agriculture. A preliminary report just issued shows, however, that three-fourths of the tractor owners were of the opinion that their tractors were proving profitable.

This survey shows differences in the cost of power and labor due to the use of tractors, the work done with them, and the cost per acre for different operations both with horses and tractors. Some 354 tractor owners in northern Oklahoma, Kansas and southern Nebraska were visited and a complete record of all work done with tractors and horses during the year was obtained, together with statements concerning the farmers' opinions of the advantages and disadvantages of using tractors. The farms averaged about 500 acres in size, on which 352 acres of crops were grown in 1921, nearly three-fourths of the crop area being in wheat.

The cost of using tractors for drawbar work on these farms averaged $4.44 for the year, or $1.00 per hour. These farmers were keeping an average of 25 head of work stock in addition to their tractors and the cost per farm of keeping the work stock for the year was $541. Thus the total annual cost of power for drawbar work was $1,025. The tractors furnished the power for 40 per cent of the drawbar work.

Variations in Cost of Power.

There were great variations in the practices and costs on individual farms and the results indicate that often the cost of using the tractors and keeping the work stock was ex-

Tractor Used for Disking.

sive for the amount of work done. Many tractor owners have not determined exactly what work they can use their tractors for most profitably and what should be done with horses. The average cost per crop acre was $3.57 per year for drawbar power for all the farms. This cost ranged from $2.21 as the average for the fourth of the farms with lowest costs to $4.73 for the fourth of the farms with highest costs.

The tractors had been in use for 15 months on an average and the first cost had been $3,475, about one-third higher than the present price of tractors of the same size and type. During the year covered by the investigation the cost of fuel and oil was also somewhat higher than at present. On account of these lower prices it is estimated that the present cost of operating tractors purchased at current prices would be something like 25 per cent below the 1921 cost on these farms.

Tractors Reduce Horses and Labor.

The effect of the addition of the tractor to the farm equipment was shown in changes recorded after the purchase of the tractor. On an average, these farms had been increased by 50 crop acres and there had been a reduction of 1.4 months in the amount of regular labor used. Three and one-third head of work stock in addition to those on hand at the time of the investigations would have been necessary if the work had all been done with horses. The tractor owners considered that they needed in addition to their tractors an average of only 0.5 head, whereas they were actually keeping 3.3 head.

Effect of Use of Tractors on Power Costs.

There was a net increase of $206 per farm in the combined cost of power and labor due to the use of the tractor, after deducting the cost of keeping the work stock which had been displaced and the value of the family and hired labor saved.

Had all the surplus horses been sold there would have been a further reduction of about $115 per farm in the cost of horse labor. On many of the farms there had been a reduction of feed for work stock due to the use of the tractor, and if this had been taken into account a further saving of about $47 per farm would have been shown.

The analysis of the cost per acre of power and man labor for different operations when done with tractors and horses gave the following averages:

Plowing spring and fall with tractors $1.99 per acre
Plowing spring and fall with horses 1.38 per acre
Disking with tractors 1.10 per acre
Disking with horses 1.03 per acre
Disking (tandem disk) with tractors 81 per acre
Disking (tandem disk) with horses 1.05 per acre
Drilling with tractors 68 per acre
Drilling with horses 52 per acre
Drawing binder with tractors 87 per acre
Drawing binder with horses 56 per acre

Cost of Power on Horse Farms.

A group of 85 farms where tractors were not owned, but comparable in size to those where tractors were used, were surveyed in order to obtain a direct comparison between costs on farms where tractors are owned and costs on farms of similar size and type where tractors are not owned. There was an average of 10.5 head of work stock on these farms, of which 10.1 head were needed for the work. One horse was needed for each 33 crop acres while the tractor owners were keeping one for each 42 crop acres and needed, in addition to their tractors, only one for each 54 crop acres.

The cost per head of keeping the work stock was $66 per year where tractors were not owned and $64 where they were owned. The horses worked 432 hours per head, 99 on the tractor farms and 624 hours on the other farms. The cost per farm of power for drawbar work where tractors were not used was $701 as compared with $1,025 where both tractors and horses were used.

What Farmers Think of Tractors.

The owners' opinions regarding the use of tractors showed that 75 per cent of the farmers interviewed believed that their tractors would be profitable investments, and 72 per cent of them intended to buy others when needed. The principal advantages mentioned were the ability to do more work in a given time, and the saving of horses in hot weather. Among the disadvantages, the first cost and depreciation and the running expenses were mentioned most frequently. The tractor was used as the primary source of power for field work by 59 per cent of the owners, while 41 per cent used the tractors as supplementary to horses. In 21 per cent of the cases the tractor owners believed that the tractors had been responsible for some increased yield per acre.

BARLEY BEING USED FOR FEEDING SWINE

Its Use for Brewing Purposes Has Fallen Off.

Department of Agriculture Takes Up Problem of Finding Relative Value of Light and Heavy Grades—It Is Cheap Crop.

Barley as a hog feed is coming on the markets in increasing amounts, probably for the reasons that its use for brewing purposes has fallen off and the hog industry has been moving into the barley-producing districts. The United States Department of Agriculture has taken up the problem of finding out the relative feeding value of light and heavy barley. There are no federal standards for this grain, but light and heavy grades are recognized on the market.

During 1921, the department made feeding tests of the two grades, and the trials will be repeated. Not enough data are available yet for definite conclusions as to the relative merits of the light and heavy grain, but the results have shown that high-class barley has a feeding value only slightly lower than good shelled corn. When these tests are completed the department will have additional information on the methods of feeding barley, whether or not it should be fed whole, rolled, dry or soaked.

WHAT IS THE "LAKES-TO-THE-SEA" HIGHWAY?

miles to a point west of Luthersburg. About two miles more through the Draucker Woods, is now under construction, being part of the Luthersburg contract started last year. At Ream's watering trough starts the Grampian Contract of ten and one half miles, which was let last month and on which work is being rapidly pushed. This link will run through Grampian to Curwensville, and there connect with paving that now runs without a single break through Clearfield and Philipsburg to Sandy Ridge on top of the Allegheny Mountains, a distance of thirty eight miles.

From Sandy Ridge to Tyone there is now a ten mile break but it is under contract and the work is under way. There are two separate jobs here one running from Sandy Ridge to Bald Eagle, the other from that point to the commencement of paving a mile north to Tyone.

A small break exists at Tyone, but just outside its limits paving starts that runs to Water Street, a village on the William Penn Highway. There is one break of less than a mile at Union Furnace. From this village of Water Street to Harrisburg, the Lakes-to-the-Sea and the William Penn Highways will be one and the same for several years to come. The latter, all paved, runs to Huntingdon and follows the Juniata River through to Lewistown and thence east to the Susquehanna River. There is a three mile break now under construction from Amity Hall to Clark's Ferry, along the Susquehanna. Crossing the river on the long bridge, the entrance to Harrisburg is over sixteen miles of new concrete highway on the left bank of the Susquehanna, along which the scenery is wonderfully pretty.

A Future Improvement

Here is might be well to make a digression. The Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway goes by way of Tyone to Harrisburg now because there already exists a greater amount of paving that way than will be available on the shorter Bellefonte-Lewistown route for several years. But eventually it is probable that twenty four miles will be saved on the Erie-Harrisburg distance by the paving of the twenty mile link from Philipsburg to the junction with the Snow Shoe-Bellefonte road and the paving of the old pike over Jack's Mountain to Milroy. But these links are not even under contract while all the broken links on the other route are.

From Harrisburg East

From Harrisburg it will be possible to go to Philadelphia through the beautiful Lebanon Valley to Reading or drop south to Lancaster and enter the city over the Lincoln Highway. From the State Capital it is also possible to go south to Baltimore, the other tidewater port, with practically all paved road.

The Only Practicable Route for Heavy Traffic

This, then, is the great diagonal trunk line that is nearing completion a line that will connect Erie, at the extreme northwest corner of the State with Philadelphia in the southeast corner. It is the only east and west trunk line that can ever be used for heavy truck haulage, for it is the only one that does not have on its course mountain barriers that travel slow and costly for any except passenger cars. On the whole length of the road from Erie to Philadelphia, there is scarcely a single grade that a medium powered car cannot make in high gear and most of the way the trail runs through rolling land, as in Erie and Crawford Counties, or in hill country as in Jefferson and Clearfield counties. A mountain is crossed from Philipsburg to Tyone, but the grade is so gradual that one is hardly aware of the ascent. The road from Lewistown follows the Juniata River between long mountain ranges. A few hills are encountered before the Susquehanna river is crossed at Clark's Ferry but neither there nor east of that river is there anything that resembles the terrific grades of the Lincoln Highway.

The latter road, one of the most interesting in America, is also one of the most mountainous. Ridge after ridge is crossed for over a hundred miles in the Southern part of the state, and they are usually four mile climbs with a multitude of corkscrew curves. The old National Pike, the most beautiful motoring road in America, is also one continuous succession of mountain chains from Uniontown to Hagerstown.

Future Traffic Over The Trail

People living along the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway are destined to see a volume of traffic beyond anything now existing on the other roads of WILLIAMSBURG. Thousands of automobiles are now shipped to Cleveland by water and driven east or are driven east from Detroit to points in the eastern part of the State. The natural road is from Detroit to Erie and then to Philadelphia, but now most of these are deflected south over the Lincoln Highway because of the numerous detours on the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway.

Future Motor Truck Hauling

The truck as a method of hauling freight is growing rapidly in favor, and during the war the Lincoln Highway was practically worn out by the multitude of such vehicles, called in to help out the congested railroads. These congested days will come again with prosperity, and much of the Great Lakes Freight from the west destined for Philadelphia and Baltimore, will follow the easiest road to tide water on trucks. This method of handling produce is yet in its infancy.

Pennsylvania One of Nature's Beauty Spots

No one who has motored much in other states needs to be told that in

natural beauty Pennsylvania is equal to any of her neighbors and superior to most of them. The hills and mountains are but little appreciated by those who live among them all the time, yet the Berkshires, noted all over the country are not more picturesque than the hills of Clarion, Jefferson and Clearfield Counties. The only difference is that the Berkshires are crossed by miles and miles of perfect roads that make traveling delightful, while the hill country of Pennsylvania has been penetrated only by rocky pikes.

The Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway will attract thousands of tourists in future years.

upstairs, including clothing, went up in smoke along with the building. Mr. Osman's estimated loss is $12,000 with partial insurance. It is expected that he will rebuild.

W. T. Hoover's barn and garage along with the contents, including a big consignment of cement and paper and some hardware stock, were ruined. The loss was about $3,000.

The loss of Williams Brothers, whose barn and garage at the grist mill was burned, is about $1,000.

Skeleton Found With Dagger in Rib

With a jeweled dagger thrust between his ribs just below the heart, the skeleton of a man was found in a very ancient terra-cotta tomb by workmen while digging the foundations for a villa at Rimini, on the Lake of Garda, Italy. Further excavations brought to light other tombs of the same kind. Rimini, which in the days of the Roman empire was a favorite resort of wealthy Romans, is now a fishing village on a narrow promontory which projects into the lake. In the neighborhood is the so-called Grotto di Capilla, the considerable remains of a Roman building said to have been the country house of Calpurnius, the famous Latin poet of Rome.

Genius Not Success Requisite

There are two kinds of success. One is the very rare kind that comes to the man who has the power to do that is genius. Only a very limited amount of the success of life comes to persons possessing genius. The average man who is successful—the average statesman, the average public servant, the average soldier, who wins what he calls great success—is not a genius. He is a man who has merely the ordinary qualities. —Theodore Roosevelt.

Delegates To Women's Club Convention Endorse Birth Control Proposal

Chautauqua, N. Y., June 20.—Representatives of two million club women in the United States launched a campaign to teach the public the principles of birth control.

The board of directors of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, at a meeting held preliminary to the convention, which opened here Wednesday, went on record as favoring birth control and authorizing Mrs. Elma Blair, New York, chairman of the Welfare Department, to start an educational campaign.

To Spread Knowledge

It is the plan of the Federation directors that women all over the world be told the advantages of birth control.

After the circulation of the propaganda, an effort will be made, according to present plans, to have present restrictions against the birth control movement removed.

Improvement of the species by birth control is hoped for by the Federation, according to Mrs. James J. Reed, Director from Arkansas.

"We have received many letters from poor mothers in the slums asking for information," she said. "They say it is impossible for them to get information desired. We want to alleviate this condition. There is no doubt but what the rank and file of members of the Federation are in favor of the movement."

The women's federation of this state was the first one to sponsor the birth control movement. Mrs. George D. Hewitt, Carriage, spoke in favor of the proposition. At the meeting, the board of directors also took action to protest to Secretary of State Hughes against the recent move of the allies in putting Greek Christians under Turkish rule. This followed a letter of complaint received from the Women's Federation of Constantinople.

It was also decided to send a letter of thanks to all United States Senators who voted in favor of the naval limitations treaty. It was through the work of the general federation that four women sat in on sessions of the Washington conference.

Fifteen hundred women, from all parts of the world, are attending the convention. They represent about 50,000 clubs.

Conferences on community service, Americanization and other departments of the Federation will be held Wednesday morning.

The formal opening of the convention will come in the evening with an address by Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, Minneapolis, the president.

Philadelphia's Big Fair Will Be Called "Liberty Fair For World Peace"

The Liberty Fair for World Peace and Progress will be the title of Philadelphia's international exposition in 1926 or 1927, under an agreement reached by the Board of Directors of the Fair Association.

This opens the way for postponing the opening until 1927.

The renaming will eliminate reference to the nation's sesqui-centennial. Primarily the purpose of the exposition is to celebrate the 150th anniversary of American independence, which occurs in 1926. Should the fair be postponed until 1927 it would be held in the 151st year after the signing of the Declaration, in which event "Sesqui-Centennial" would be a misnomer.

J. LEE OWENS ACCEPTS FINE POSITION

J. Lee Owens, formerly of Curwensville, has resigned his position as Senior Accountant and Systematizer on the Staff of Ernst & Ernst, Certified Public Accountants, by whom he has been employed for over three years, to accept a responsible position with the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company, the largest independent steel company. He is well prepared to discharge the duties of this important position with the expert knowledge of accounts obtained through study and public practice.

Recently he was made a member of the Honorary Scholastic Society of Delta Mu Delta of the University of Pittsburgh from which he graduated in 1921, and presented with the gold key, tangible evidence that he attained a high ranking in his studies at the University. Lee is also a member of Alpha Kappa Psi Fraternity, Pumas Club, American Legion Post No. 5, Syria Temple of the Mystic Shrine, Pennsylvania Consistory, Georgetown Lodge of Perfection, Bellefield Royal Arch Chapter.

This One a Beauty.

Wild Carrot, or Bird's Nest, or Queen Anne's Lace, is a plant that often spreads over wide meadows and along dusty country roads, says the American Forestry Magazine. It is a pest to farmers, a joy to the flower-lover, and a welcome signal for refreshment to flies, beetles, bees and wasps.

Conferences on community service, Americanization and other departments of the Federation will be held Wednesday morning.

The formal opening of the convention will come in the evening with an address by Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, Minneapolis, the president.

Good for the Dressmakers.

HEARTBURN AND
CONSTIPATION

They Quickly Make One Nervous and Sleepless

Heartburn is simply an indication of the manufacture of poisonous acid and gas in the stomach. The throat becomes the chimney of the stomach through which some of the poisonous gas escapes giving one a foul breath and causing great pain at times. Usually where one has this symptom of stomach trouble it is found that the sufferer is greatly constipated which adds to the physical discomfort and the danger of a general physical breakdown. It is astonishing the number of women who suffer from indigestion and constipation and especially when there is in every drug store a family remedy that quickly regulates and restores them to health if they will just get it and use it.

From Muskegon, Mich. Mrs. Grignon tells us that she was a great sufferer—that after eating, gas would form in her stomach, giving her heartburn and stomach pains until she could not sleep. Sometimes the gas distended her so that she had terrible pains in the shoulder blades and around the heart. Then from less than one full bottle she found such quick and certain relief that she slept soundly, ate anything she wished without discomfort and had no return of the trouble when she wrote us. You can get New-Worth at any drug store. It is always on sale at Stewart's drug store in this city—Stewart's drug store and all druggists are authorized to give the money back if the first bottle fails to give satisfaction.

CONSTIPATION

They Quickly Make One Nervous and Sleepless

Heartburn is simply an indication of the manufacture of poisonous acid and gas in the stomach. The throat becomes the chimney of the stomach through which some of the poisonous gas escapes giving one a foul breath and causing great pain at times. Usually where one has this symptom of stomach trouble it is found that the sufferer is greatly constipated which adds to the physical discomfort and the danger of a general physical breakdown. It is astonishing the number of women who suffer from indigestion and constipation and especially when there is in every drug store a family remedy that quickly regulates and restores them to health if they will just get it and use it.

From Muskegon, Mich. Mrs. Grignon tells us that she was a great sufferer—that after eating, gas would form in her stomach, giving her heartburn and stomach pains until she could not sleep. Sometimes the gas distended her so that she had terrible pains in the shoulder blades and around the heart. Then from less than one full bottle she found such quick and certain relief that she slept soundly, ate anything she wished without discomfort and had no return of the trouble when she wrote us. You can get New-Worth at any drug store. It is always on sale at Stewart's drug store in this city—Stewart's drug store and all druggists are authorized to give the money back if the first bottle fails to give satisfaction.

New York, June 21.—After seven years' litigation the will of Amos F. Eno, disposing of property worth more than $13,000,000 was admitted to probate late yesterday by Surrogate Foley.

This action followed the settlement recently of the contest, by heirs-at-law of the provisions leaving more than $4,000,000 to Columbia University and large sums to other public organizations, when the third trial of the contest was about to start.

Clarence J. Shearn, counsel for the beneficiaries named in the will, said that, while he had hoped to make public the terms of the settlement, it had been decided to keep them secret.

It is understood that Gifford Pinchot, Mr. Eno's nephew, who is the Republican candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, and other heirs-at-law who filed the contest, will receive several million dollars more than was provided by the terms of the will, but because of the increase in the value of the estate since Mr. Eno died, the share left to each beneficiary will not be less than was estimated at the time of his death.

The will was probated after the subscribing witnesses, Eli G. Partidge, of Madison, N. J.; Leonard Leaman, of 332 S. Nicholas ave. and John E. Mertz of Westwood, N. J. had testified. The estate will be administered by Lucius H. Beers, the sole surviving executor because of the death of William Mitchell.

Friendless Flowers.

It has recently been discovered that flowers, like human beings, have friends and enemies in their own world. If certain varieties are put together in a vase some of them will group almost as soon as they are placed in the water. Sweet peas, for instance, will not live in company. Some flowers, such as the magnolia, ally of the valley, and shirley poppy have a bad effect on almost all neighbors, and are practically friendless.

CRAMPS, PAINS AND BACKACHE

St. Louis Woman Relieved by
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Louis, Mo.—"I was bothered with cramps and pains every month and had backache and had to go to bed as I could not work. My mother and my whole family always took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for such troubles and they induced me to try it and it has helped me very much. I don't have cramps any more, and I can do my housework all through the month. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends for female troubles."

Mrs. DELIA SCHOLZ, 1412 Salisbury Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Just think for a moment. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been in use for nearly fifty years. It is prepared from medicinal plants, by the utmost pharmaceutical skill, and superior methods. The ingredients thus combined in the Compound correct the conditions which cause such annoying symptoms as had been troubling Mrs. Scholz. The Vegetable Compound exercises a restorative influence of the most desirable character, correcting the trouble in a gentle but efficient manner. This is noted by the disappearance, one after another, of the disagreeable symptoms.

Delegates To Women's Club Convention Endorse Birth Control Proposal

Chautauque, N. Y., June 20.—Representatives of two million club women in the United States launched a campaign to teach the public the principles of birth control.

The board of directors of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, at a meeting held preliminary to the convention, which opened here Wednesday, went on record as favoring birth control and authorizing Mrs. Elma Blair, New York, chairman of the Welfare Department, to start an educational campaign.

To Spread Knowledge

It is the plan of the Federation directors that women all over the world be told the advantages of birth control.

After the circulation of the propaganda, an effort will be made, according to present plans, to have present restrictions against the birth control movement removed.

Improvement of the species by birth control is hoped for by the Federation, according to Mrs. James J. Reed, Director from Arkansas.

"We have received many letters from poor mothers in the slums asking for information," she said. "They say it is impossible for them to get information desired. We want to alleviate this condition. There is no doubt but what the rank and file of members of the Federation are in favor of the movement."

The women's federation of this state was the first one to sponsor the birth control movement, Mrs. George D. Hewitt, Carhage, spoke in favor of the proposition. At the meeting, the board of directors also took action to protest to Secretary of State Hughes against the recent move of the allies in putting Greek Christians under Turkish rule. This followed a letter of complaint received from the Women's Federation of Constantinople.

It was also decided to send a letter of thanks to all United States Senators who voted in favor of the naval limitations treaty. It was through the work of the general federation that four women sat in on sessions of the Washington conference.

Fifteen hundred women, from all parts of the world, are attending the convention. They represent about 50,000 clubs.

Conferences on community service, Americanization and other departments of the Federation will be held Wednesday morning.

The formal opening of the convention will come in the evening with an address by Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, Minneapolis, the president.

Good for the Dressmakers.

Testimony in a recent lawsuit before a London court was to the effect that a woman who aspires to "hold her own" in the exclusive circles of English society, must have from 30 to 40 new gowns a year at an average cost of $200 each.

Serving A Growing Clientele Of Real Estate Buyers

More and more folks are beginning to look at this office as a clearing house for properties, city and suburban. I have at present several parties who wish to purchase properties if they can find what they want and I also have several properties listed for sale that will be sold at bargains.

Drop in and talk the matter over. I am thoroughly acquainted with the city and surrounding territory and know real estate values.

HE DIDN'T

He didn't have a "little fairy in his home"—nor a "little miss" in his engine. Not even a "little made" in his cellar.

But he had a little shower in his bath room that made up for the absence of all the rest. He'll tell you that there is nothing more comforting—more healthful—more invigorating, than to bathe in running water.

How about a little shower in YOUR Bathroom?
